Stinnett or One Of Two Girls in Car Shot Gantt, Defendant Claims

Defendant in Murder Case
Testifies All Three Were Drunk When Farmer Was Murdered

Testimony is Different Than Original Story Told To Police After Fatal Shooting

Prince Frederick, Md., Dec. 1 (AP)—Walter Stinnett went to the witness stand in his own defense tonight to tell a heretofore unreported version of the shooting of William Warren Gantt, 55, eccentric tobacco grower slain last July 12.

Stinnett, 24, who with Mrs. Margaret Abell, 18 and Mrs. Evelyn Bapowski, 18, is charged with murdering Gantt, testified before a packed courtroom, and was still on the stand when court was adjourned until morning.

"Gantt and I were in the car and the girls had gone up to the house," he testified. "We were drinking and kept talking to the girls and then I went to sleep. When I awoke I saw he had fallen out of the car and one foot was still in the car."

All Went for Gun

"Margaret had a gun and was pointing it at him," he continued. "We all went after the gun. I was absolutely drunk. All hands were pulling over the gun and it went off. But I don't know who pulled the trigger. I went up to Mr. Gantt who was lying on the ground and called to him. Margaret said it was no use, he is dead."

"I tried to drive the car but I was too drunk to drive and Margaret took the wheel."

The testimony followed introduction of an alleged confession by Stinnett in which he was quoted as saying he shot Gantt for his money.

Frost Predicts Fewer Deaths in U.S. During 1938

Life Insurance Medical Director Says Deaths
Will Drop 73,000

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Death will strike 73,000 fewer blows in the United States this year than last, the Association of Life Insurance Presidents was told today.

Dr. Harold M. Frost, Medical Director of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, reporting the results of an Association survey, told the 32nd Annual convention of the Company heads the figure indicated that actually 85,000 lives were being saved this year in comparison with 1937.

Lowest Rate in History

Asserting that the present death rate among American policyholders was the lowest ever recorded by the Association, Dr. Frost said:

"In specific figures, 747.9 of each 100,000 policyholders will have died this year, as compared with 794.3 in 1937. This represents an improvement in the death rate of 5.8 percent; a saving of 46.4 lives for each 100,000 policyholders."

"If the same degree of improvement continues and applies to our general population, we may expect 73,000 fewer deaths in our nation than last year, despite an increase of population which, had the death rate of 1937 prevailed, would have resulted automatically in 12,000 more deaths."

"Considering the lower death rate in conjunction with the increase in population, we conclude that there will be about 1,378,000 deaths in the United States in 1938—a saving of 85,000 lives as compared with 1937."

More Deaths From Heart Disease

Dr. Frost said that in only three of the 21 specific causes of death among policyholders was there a material increase in the rate. These causes were organic heart disease, in which the deaths rose from 158.6 to 164.3 per 100,000 insured lives, cancer, rising from 91 to 94.1 per 100,000, and suicide, increasing from 13.7 to 15.9 per 100,000.

Concerning suicides, the medical director commented: "The experience of recent years has demonstrated that the frequency of suicide varies with fluctuations of economic conditions x x x. This increase of rate, therefore, is consistent with the decline of business in 1938."

Daladier Seeks Early Showdown In Parliament

Premier Calls Session for Next Week
Thursday

SCATTERED WALKOUTS
CONTINUE IN CITIES

Government Orders Sympathy Strikes Suppressed

Paris, Dec. 1 (AP)—Strong-Handed Premier Daladier announced today he would convene parliament next Thursday for what promised to be a showdown on his three-year plan for "economic mobilization."

Scattered walkouts of workers in sympathy with thousands of their fellows who were discharged by private industries for joining yesterday's abortive general strike confronted the government with a complex new problem.

Forces of soldiers and mobile garrisons such as Daladier employed to break the general strike movement were dispatched to separate regions to meet these new walkouts.

The government ordered the sympathy strikes and occupations to be suppressed as firmly as was the general strike movement—by conciliation if possible or by force if necessary.

Storm Metal Plant

Wholesale discharges caused several hundred workers at Raisins, near Valenciennes, to storm a metal plant in an effort to prevent 60 retained employees from continuing their work.

Mobile guards intervened, and a brief skirmish ensued in which one guard was injured. Several arrests were made and the workers were dispersed.

Erstwhile strikers discharged from nationalized and private shipyards at St. Nazaire were supported by affiliated labor unions in the call for a general strike of about 11,000 workmen in that region tomorrow.

In Northern France alone, 20,000 metal workers, 4,000 miners and 4,000 mine railway workers had been discharged for answering organized labor's call for the 24-hour walk-out of protest against Daladier's decree laws.

The premier's office announced that leaders of the strike movement in the public services—particularly those who passed the General Confederation of labor call on to their unions—would be discharged immediately.

All other public employees who struck were suspended without pay until the various ministers under which they worked had time to pass on the merits of each case.

Daladier held a conference on the punishment of public employees who struck, between meetings with leaders of center and right political parties. The premier was believed seeking the moderate and conservative support needed for parliamentary approval of his economic program.

Consider Punitive Measures

The premier and his aides also considered punitive measures against labor, socialist and communist leaders of the strike, exclusive of government employees.

Commonwealth & South- ern and A. G. & E. Seek Rich Territory

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—A behind-the-scenes battle between the two largest utility systems in the country for control of one of the most profitable Middle Western fields was disclosed today as a by-product of the filing of integration plans, under the federal holding company act.

Wall street utility experts familiar with the plans filed in Washington yesterday and today with the securities and exchange commission by leading utility systems said both Commonwealth and Southern Corp., and American Gas and Electric Co., have hopes of dominating the mid-western territory.

Commonwealth and Southern, headed by Wendell L. Wilkie, who has frequently tangled with the administration over the Tennessee Valley Authority, is the second biggest utility system in the country.

Largest is Electric Bond and Share system, which records show owns 19 per cent of the voting stock of American Gas and Electric Co. C. E. Groesbeck, who recently made his peace publicly with the administration, is chairman of both Electric Bond and American Gas.

Big Stake Involved

Chief stake involved is Midland United Co., now in reorganization in federal court at Wilmington, Del., as an Insull failure.

Despite its complicated financial difficulties, Midland serves most of the prosperous rural sections of Indiana, and a number of cities, including Terre Haute.

American Gas abuts Midland's vast and prosperous territory at three points—Southwest Michigan, Northwest Ohio, and has an island in the midst of Indiana, in the neighborhood of Marion and Blackford.

The biggest single company in Wilkie's Commonwealth and Southern system is Consumers Power Company, covering a large part of Michigan, with profitable industrial, farm and residential areas.

Proposals Kept Secret

While neither system will make the proposals to the S. E. C. public, and the proposals themselves are said to be cautiously worded, American Gas is said to want to expand through Indiana so that its present properties on the shore of Lake Michigan and those stretching across Ohio to Pennsylvania and West Virginia, would be interconnected.

Whichever one gets the plum—possibly in the hands of the federal court and the S. E. C. for disposal—will be in a position to expand gradually in all directions to a dominating position in the most fertile districts of the middle west, by acquiring small and independent systems and the left-over pieces of big systems discarded in the general integration upheaval.

Gunmen Attack CIO Strike Leader In Stock Yards Area

Chicago, Dec. 1 (AP)—Herbert March, a leader of the CIO strike at the Chicago stock yards, escaped unscathed today from an attack by unidentified gunmen.

Police captain John McGinnis said March told him he was driving North on Ashland avenue on his way to the picket lines when three men drew alongside in another automobile and fired four or five bullets.

March leaped from the car and fell to the pavement, the captain added, while his assailants sped away. One bullet struck the door of his machine. March is an organizer for the Packing House Workers Organizing Committee.

Earlier in the day District Attorney William J. Campbell received a letter from the striking livestock handlers union complaining of "attacks on union members x x x by slugs who are not employees." Campbell said he forwarded it to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings.

Meanwhile, the strikers consented to sale of 8,000 animals exhibited at the International Livestock Show on the strike-bound market at the yards.

Regular trade there was completely halted, however, when railroad placed an embargo on the shipment of cattle, sheep and hogs to commission men who buy from farmers and sell to packers. Direct shipments to the packing houses was not included in the ban.

No moves for further negotiations between the CIO chiefs and the union stock yards company were made. Peace parleys were scheduled to be resumed next Monday.

Roosevelt Delays Naming of Envoy To Soviet Union

Attitude Taken To Indicate Strained Relations

RUSSIAN AMBASSADOR TO REMAIN AT HOME

Actual State of Relations With the Soviet Is Mystery

By CHARLES F. NUTTER

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt's delay in appointing a new ambassador to Moscow has created an impression in diplomatic circles that American relations with Russia may have arrived at the same state of chilly doubt as those with Germany.

President Roosevelt has allowed the Moscow post to stand vacant since Ambassador Joseph E. Davies was transferred to Brussels in June. He said this week he did not know when he would appoint a new envoy.

The Kremlin meanwhile has let it be known that Ambassador Alexander A. Troyanovsky, who had gone home on leave, would not return to Washington.

Relations Ambiguous

The actual state of American relations with the Soviet and with Germany, while nominally normal, is nevertheless ambiguous. The absence of envoys, if evidence of displeasure or disapproval, is a new principal merit of which is that it is easier to retract steps taken than if an open break occurred.

There have been several signs of friction between Russia and the United States since they resumed diplomatic relations about five years ago.

About a year after the resumption of relations, debt negotiations broke down, and were followed by withdrawal of a large part of the American embassy staff in Moscow and closing of the consulate there.

Plans for construction of a large American embassy in Lenin Hills were abandoned. Later more personnel was withdrawn, and the American Ambassador began a practice of making long trips abroad. In 1935 relations suffered their

DuPont Says Business Is Afraid of What the Government Will Do to It

Industrialist Opposes Profit-Sharing Proposals

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Lammot DuPont, widely known industrialist, told the senate committee on profit sharing today that business was still afraid of what government might do to it and as a result was lagging in enterprise.

The president of E. I. DuPont de Nemours and company testified he was opposed to incentive taxation to encourage industrial profit sharing because he feared "there would be danger of too much administrative 'interpretation' of such tax laws and of consequent bureaucratic interference with the conduct of business enterprise."

He said that "once the principle is established, it can readily be used for ends definitely harmful to business—thus creating even greater uncertainty."

Instead of profit sharing systems, DuPont favored "high wages based on efficient performance."

He differed with three other witnesses who appeared before the committee during the day.

Frank Gannett, Rochester, N. Y., publisher of the Gannett newspapers; A. L. Marsh, Detroit manufacturer, and Willford I. King, New York University professor, all endorsed the principles of profit sharing and incentive taxation to encourage it.

Talking to reporters after the hearing, DuPont said he did not

Lake City

DRIVER STOPPED, THEN

Seventeen Injured, Six Critically, Officials Report

Salt Lake City, Dec. 1 (AP)—A freight train speeding a mile a minute in a snow storm crashed into a school bus at a little used crossing today, killing at least 22 students and the bus driver.

Hysterical parents identified the bodies at an improvised morgue in Salt Lake General Hospital.

In addition, authorities sought identification of what Dr. R. J. Alexander, superintendent at the hospital, said were parts of "one or two bodies."

Seventeen of the more than 40 students on the bus, enroute to Jordan district High School near Midvale, a Salt Lake City suburb, were injured, six critically.

Exact Facts Unknown

Conflicting testimony hampered officials who sought to determine the cause of the accident, one of the worst of its kind in the nation's history. Students who escaped death in the demolished, orange bus told how Driver Farrold Silcox, 29, stopped near the crossing in accordance with Utah law, then went ahead. They told of reduced visibility because of a snow storm.

Engineer E. L. Rehmer stated in his report to Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad officials that although a light snow was falling, "visibility was at least 1,200 feet."

Brakeman G. M. Kelley reported seeing the bus come to a stop and then, when "the train was an engine and two car lengths from the crossing the bus started. The fireman and I hollered 'big hole' (an emergency cry on board train to indicate a coming crash). The engineer made emergency application of brakes. The crossing whistle was properly sounded and was still sounding when we came to the crossing."

Ickes Considering Entering Race for Mayor of Chicago

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Secretary Ickes toyed today with the idea of becoming a Democratic candidate for Mayor of Chicago.

Numerous friends representing labor, racial and liberal interests have urged him to make the race next year, he said at his press conference.

"I have not decided, but I have an open mind on the subject," he told reporters.

He said he understood his friends wished him to run on a Liberal Democratic ticket but added:

"I don't believe they care an awful lot what the ticket is just so long as I run. They are interested in good clean government and they have a schools and traction problem on their hands."

Discussing national politics, Ickes observed that the Republican National Committee, in electing former Senator Daniel O. Hastings (R-Del) to its executive committee this week over Kenneth F. Simpson of New York, an avowed Liberal, had served the interests of Liberal Democrats in the 1940 presidential campaign.

"I am very pleased," he told reporters. "The committee has served notice on the country that no Liberal need apply to the Republicans."

"Can you imagine Hastings helping nominate a Liberal Republican candidate for president?"

"If Hastings is a Liberal, Herbert Hoover is a Communist."

Two Attempts To Tax Home Owners' Loan Corporation Lost by State

Court Rules Against Maryland In Important Cases

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 1 (AP)—Two attempts to tax the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and its employees were lost by the state of Maryland today on adverse rulings by the State Court of Appeals.

The state failed in its attempt to collect recordation taxes on HOLC mortgages and to impose state income taxes on salaries paid Maryland HOLC employees when the Appellate Court affirmed rulings of the Baltimore Superior Court.

Both issues were test cases. The state appealed the writ of mandamus issued to compel the court clerk, M. Luther Pittman, to record HOLC mortgages without payment of the special relief tax of 10 cents per $100 mortgage value on all recordings. The loan corporation was willing to pay the $2.50 regular recordation fee.

The appellate court held the United States Supreme Court ruling that the state of Alabama could not tax mortgages of the Federal Land Bank established a legal precedent which precluded collection of the recordation tax in Maryland. In the Alabama case, the court held the mortgages were instrumentalities of the United States, and specifically were exempt from taxation by the states or other political units.

The Supreme Court and the Maryland court both upheld the right of the state to collect a reasonable fee to offset the cost of recording, but distinguished between the regular fee and special revenue taxes.

The suit of the state against Frank Prince, regional director of HOLC, to collect state income taxes, denied in lower court, was also denied in the Court of Appeals opinion.

The U. S. Supreme Court decision which denied the right of the state of New York to collect income taxes from employees of the Panama railroad, a corporation wholly-owned by the federal government, was cited by the Court of Appeals in denying the right of the state to collect from Prince.

The court, in a precedent-setting Maryland decision, held that the Home Owners' Loan Corporation was by "origin, control, function and statutory designation" a federal instrumentality, and as such exempt from state taxation.

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—From out on the Atlantic tonight wireless crackled the dramatic story of the rescue of the crew of the schooner Allen F. Rose, afire with its stern held together by wire, after drifting helplessly for 12 days off Newfoundland.

The rescue was made by the American Seismic liner Mormacsun, which sighted the blazing schooner about 250 miles North of Cape Race this noon, sped to its side, and took aboard its captain and crew of four.

In the laconic language of the sea, Captain Benjamin Benedetti of the Mormacsun wirelessly the radio corporation of America tonight:

"11:05 A. M. (E.S.T.) sighted two-masted schooner Allen F. Rose afire off St. John's Newfoundland with only one jib set heading east and wallowing heavily in trough of rough sea. Proceeded at once to locality. Noon arrived alongside distressed schooner, found rudder missing, vessel afire in waterlogged condition. Captain J. Keeping of Schooner requested immediate removal of crew."

"Maneuvered about schooner and effected transfer of Captain and four men all O. K. at 12:30 P. M. They had been drifting for 12 days keeping afloat by pumping. Captain said stern being held together by heavy wire passed under counter and would not have held through gale we are now experiencing. Schooner bound for St. John's."

Women's Prison Plans Approved by P.W.A.

Baltimore, Dec. 11 (AP)—Preliminary PWA approval of plans for the new $427,000 women's prison at Jessups was announced today by Henry G. Perring, architect for the project. He said work would begin by Jan. 11.

Contracts totaling $78,923 for a sewage treatment plant, sewers and water mains already have been awarded, Perring said. The prison will be ready for occupancy in January, 1940.

The six buildings, planned to house about 175 prisoners, are being financed by a PWA grant of $192,000 and $235,000 in state bonds. No facilities for segregating women prisoners in separate institutions are provided in Maryland at present.

Oxon Hill, Md., Dec. 1 (AP)—Mary Brown, 18-year old school girl missing since yesterday afternoon, was returned to her farm home near here tonight in an hysterical condition.

Friends of the Brown family said Mary told them she had been seized by two men in a truck, taken to nearby Washington and held there until this evening.

She then was put into the truck, the friends said, and was taken to a spot about a half-mile from her home where she was released.

Persons at the Brown home said Mary, with her clothes tattered and her body bruised, collapsed after coming up the lane to the house.

Details Withheld

State police in charge of the case said they could give no details until they had opportunity to question her.

Margaret Brown, a sister, came to the door of the home to tell reporters:

"Mary is back and safe."

Mary Brown disappeared yesterday while she and a 15-year old sister, Lucy, were returning from classes at a Washington business school. Lucy told police this story:

Two men, driving a truck, offered them a ride. They refused and the men drove away, but returned in a moment. They leaped from the truck and seized Mary. Lucy escaped by crawling under a fence and running across a field to her home.

Found School Papers

Captain Edward M. Johnson of the Maryland state police said officers found Mary's school papers trampled into the mud and signs of a scuffle. They took plaster castings of shoe marks at that spot.

Dr. Isador Lubin Gives Statistics On Needs of U.S.

Labor Commissioner Says Population Increase Will End in 1960

Says Industry Depends Upon Increase In Consumption

By RICHARD L. TURNER

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—With a schoolmaster's pointer and a dizzying array of business charts, Dr. Isador Lubin, Federal Commissioner of Labor Statistics, gave the monopoly committee a broad picture of the past operation of the American economic machine today and added this advice as to the future:

The growth of the American population, which for years acted as a spur upon production, is now slowing down and by 1960 will stop altogether. Consequently, only a constantly increasing consumption per family can bring about a general and regular increase in the output of the nation's industries.

Fully "half the market" for industrial and agricultural products lies with the 54 percent of the nation's families which receive incomes of $1,200 a year or less. Their incomes and standard of living must be increased, if the machine is to run smoothly and at a greater rate of speed. Giving each of them $2.25 more to spend each day would mean a capacity output for industry.

First of Many Witnesses

Dr. Lubin was the first of a long series of witnesses the committee expects to hear in a two-year survey of the ins and outs of American business and finance. The inquiry is directed particularly at monopoly or concentrations of wealth, the causes of unemployment and the effects of tax and other governmental policies on business.

The beginning of the investigation drew a capacity crowd to the big marble caucus room of the Senate office building.

Although some business men have expressed fear of an anti-business "witch hunt," there were no manifestations today of such a punitive attitude.

After the customary period of picture taking, and a statement by Chairman O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) that "no personal, partisan or factional program" was contemplated, the committee started receiving data on employment production and payrolls from the commerce and labor departments and the federal reserve board.

Pours Out Statistics

The dapper Dr. Lubin, much at his ease, poured forth industrial statistics. There were occasional corrections or promptings from Leon Henderson, the committee's secretary, who had figure after figure on the tip of his tongue. Many persons in the crowd apparently found that a prediction made recently by O'Mahoney was being borne out. The senator had said some of the committee's hearings would prove "dull but very important." By noon, half the crowd had gone.

Dr. Lubin's picture of American business was that of an industrial system which, until 1929, strove to produce enough goods to meet the demands of a constantly increased population. It succeeded, he said, in keeping the rate by which production increases well ahead of the rate by which the population grew. But since 1929, it has been a different story.

Lubin said that a big factor in unemployment in addition to the simple one of shrunken business was the fact that due to science, production has increased with hardly a corresponding jump in the number employed. In fact, as a particularly graphic illustration, he produced figures on the cigarette industry which showed a production running steadily upward and a simultaneous downward trend in employment.

Essentially, he said, the depression was a durable goods depression, which saw the production of steel, automobiles and other lasting goods drop while production of non-durable consumer goods held fairly constant. The problem, he said, repeating a diagnosis economists have repeatedly made, was one of stimulating the durable goods industries.

Attorney Makes Insanity Plea in Effort To Save Mrs. Hahn from Chair

Columbus, O., Dec. 1 (AP)—Anna Marie Hahn, condemned poison slayer, was pictured as "innocent or insane" today by her attorneys, who pleaded for Gov. Martin L. Davey to spare her life.

The prosecution branded her as a "mass murderer" in very sense of the word whose death sentence should stand in the interest of law and order.

Oscar Hahn, 12-year old son of the woman who is scheduled to die in the electric chair Wednesday, Dec. 7 for the slaying of Jacob Wagner, 78-year old Cincinnati gardener, asserted Mrs. Hahn had been "as good a mother as there is" and that he was positive she was innocent.

Governor Davey, who has power to commute her sentence to life imprisonment, said he would begin Tuesday a study of the arguments submitted at today's clemency hearing.

Belgium's Break With Spain May Disrupt the Chamber of Deputies

Trouble Feared Over Decision to Recognize Rebels

Brussels, Dec. 1 (AP)—A major revolt was foreshadowed in the chamber of deputies today by a break in Belgium's relations with government of Spain and mounting discord over domestic affairs.

The diplomatic rupture which followed a decision to send a Belgian commercial agent to insurgent Spain came in the midst of talk of a possible cabinet resignation because of chamber opposition to a government-sponsored compulsory unemployment insurance plan.

Mariano Ruiz Pines, Spanish government Ambassador to Brussels, left tonight for Barcelona and Premier Paul Henri Spaak recalled the Belgian charge d'affaires and consul to the Spanish government capital.

Spaak met meanwhile in a two hour night session with the cabinet council to discuss the opposition to the insurance plan. There were reports he was advocating the resignation of the entire cabinet because of the dispute.

Falling to reach a decision at tonight's session, the cabinet council adjourned to meet again tomorrow afternoon.

Spaak was the object of a heated attack from the Socialist Party. The Socialists were aroused particularly because of the premier's intention to withdraw from the London non-intervention committee and his decision to send a commercial representative to insurgent Spain.

Almost forgotten in the uproar was the arrival of Oswald Pirov, Union of South African Defense Minister, for political talks.

Pirov's appearance in Brussels had aroused public fears over reports that Belgium would probably lose if the large European powers made a colonial deal with Adolf Hitler.

"The girls went to the house (leaving Gant asleep in an automobile) and I followed them. Margaret had a gun. We went back to the car and she shot him. Betty grabbed the gun and I grabbed it from her and shot him twice."

Under prompting from state police that he tell the truth, Stinnett changed his story in the confession to read:

"I shot the first shot. Margaret had the gun but she lost her nerve and I did the shooting."

He said the shooting occurred after the girls approached him to get Gant's bankroll which the farmer had been prominently displaying to merchants. Police estimated it totaled about $1,000.

"Well, they just got after me to do it, and I helped them," he added.

State Policeman Charles W. Magaha, questioning Stinnett, asked:

"There was only one thing behind this, and that was to get his money, wasn't it?"

"Yes," replied Stinnett, in the statement read by the jury by state's attorney Arthur W. Dowell.

The reading of the confession followed bitter objections by defense attorney J. B. Grey, Jr. Chief Judge Walter Mitchell, however ruled that two previous alleged confessions which were signed by all three defendants need not be read into the record.

Wolverton Scores Financial Report Of TVA Experts

Declares Unexpended Balance of $37,900,000 Not Reported

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Representative Wolverton (R-N.J.), a member of the committee investigating the TVA, contended today that the Authority, while seeking additional appropriations, had failed to apprise congress that it had an unexpended balance of $37,900,000.

Another development before the committee was testimony by Theodore B. Parker, the TVA's chief engineer, that the tri-purpose character of the Authority's development had been the means of saving vast sums. He said $94,000,000 had been invested in the three dams now in operation—Wilson, Norris and Wheeler—whereas the total cost of providing separate systems for flood control, navigation and power would have been $160,000,000.

Wolverton questioned representatives of the general accounting office about financial reports for the year ended June 30, 1934.

The general accounting office listed TVA assets at $104,244,125, he said, whereas the annual report of the TVA to congress for the same period listed assets of only $13,714,416—a difference of approximately $90,000,000.

Muscle Shoals Not Included

The general accounting office auditors said the difference had resulted from TVA's failure to include the Muscle Shoals property, received from the war department and valued at $1,000,000, and omission of approximately $37,900,000 of funds appropriated by congress.

"So that any member of congress looking at the financial statement," Wolverton commented, "would not have been apprised that TVA, while seeking additional appropriations had an unexpended balance of $37,900,000."

Turning to S. B. Tulloss, chief of the General Accounting Office investigating staff, Wolverton asked whether he did not consider the TVA statements to be "incomplete, unbalanced and misleading."

Tulloss declined to answer directly, but agreed with Wolverton that the reports did not give congress a "true picture" of TVA finances.

Mixed Pair Bridge Tournament Won by New York Couple

Cleveland, Dec. 1 (AP)—An exciting 44-year-old New York lawyer and the wife of a collar company sales manager from the same city won the American Contract Bridge League's National mixed pair championship tonight.

It was no surprise when Fred D. Kaplan, paired with Mrs. Sam Rush, finished more than six points ahead of another New York City combination.

Mrs. Rush won the event last year with Harry J. Fishbein, who didn't enter this time. Kaplan, an outstanding tournament player despite only four years of such play, is a former co-holder of the national men's pair title.

Their nearest competitors in a field of 122 starting players were Mrs. Lottie Zetoch and R. L. Appleby.

A Mr. and Mrs. combination from Cleveland—the W. Jeff Myers—wound up third. These exponents of the Boland Club system had 300 points, compared with 317.8 for the victors and 311.2 for the runners-up, who both used a variation of the Culbertson system.

Leading players explained that nearly all the top-flight squeeze and coup engenders bid alike, a contrast to varying theories of a few years ago. The Culbertson and Four Aces systems are nearly identical except for minor variations and the Culbertson four-five no trump convention calling on a partner to show his ace.

sharpest strain when the United States publicly warned the Bolsheviks they would have to restrain anti-American Communist propaganda on Soviet soil as they promised to do, or suffer the consequences.

William G. Bullitt, first American envoy, retired some months later to take up his present post in Paris. The Moscow position was left vacant about six months, then Davies was selected in November, 1938. He remained ambassador 18 months, but spent only a third of his time in the Soviet union.

Since his transfer, the embassy counselor and charge d'affaires has taken up his residence in Spassko House, where the ambassador lives in Moscow. There have been indications that he will remain there indefinitely.

Geologist Says Eastern Gas Will Last 17 Years

West Virginia Supplies of Local Company Good for 25

Known natural gas resources in the Appalachian area will be adequate for only seventeen years more, Geologist E. P. Roth testified before the West Virginia Public Service Commission in Charleston yesterday, the Associated Press reported.

The West Virginia resources of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company, which supplies Cumberland, will last for twenty-five more years at the present rate of consumption, Roth estimated. The estimated amount is 19,684,000 M. C. W. (thousand cubic feet).

Roth is a specialist with the Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation, parent concern of the Cumberland and Allegheny. His testimony was part of a public hearing on the petition of a score of central West Virginia towns to have their gas rates reduced.

Keyser, Ridgeley and Piedmont are not among the towns asking a reduction.

It is expected that when gas wells of the East are pumped out, eastern cities will have to get their entire supplies of natural gas from the fields of Texas and the Southwest.

Robert H. Delafield, of New York, a vice president of Columbia, said Columbia's initial cost was $3,606,458 and that $250,000 had been advanced net since it was acquired by Columbia. The financing cost, he said, should be listed at least four percent, while the fair investment return the concern should bring was eight percent.

He told of increased costs during the past eight years and said during that time no raise in rates has been granted.

The hearing will be continued today.

Roosevelt Talks Over Plans With Speaker Bankhead

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

Warm Springs, Ga., Dec. 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt and speaker Bankhead surveyed the congressional outlook and the international situation today and announced afterward the president would deliver his annual legislative message in person January 3.

Beyond that, all they would say at a roadside press conference was that they talked about "cabbages and kings." They smilingly borrowed the walrus's quotation from "Alice in Wonderland" to describe the extensive range of their discussion without going into detail.

After their hour-and-a-half talk at the "Little White House" on Pine Mountain, the chief executive drove his congressional guest to Georgia Hall, white-columned administrative center of the Warm Springs foundation, and parked before a group of reporters and cameramen.

Plans Kept Secret

"We talked about cabbages and kings—and whatever the rest of the quotation is," said Bankhead. "Of shoes and sealing wax," supplied the president.

In the same joking spirit, the president said he had discussed international as well as national affairs, and the public would know all about it January 3.

He added the talk covered the whole range of prospective legislation and said everything was sweet and smooth.

Asked whether a special message would be sent on the big defense program now under expert study, Mr. Roosevelt said he could not say how that subject would be treated because he had yet to begin writing his message.

Refuses to Discuss Bills

He shied away from questions whether he would make another attempt to get through a government reorganization bill. Specific bills would not be discussed at this time, he emphasized.

Asked for a list of "must" bills for the new session, the president replied there was no such thing and never had been. He said "must" was a misnomer—a chimera obscure.

Committee appointments and Senate and House organization in general were understood to have been discussed. Bankhead said before the conference he expected to take up the House rules committee chairmanship left vacant with the defeat, sought by the president, of Rep. John J. O'Connor of New York. Late in the day the president conferred with Harry Hopkins, administrator.

William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France who has been vacationing in the Bahamas, arrived before nightfall, but his call was described as largely personal.

Wants Game Protector

Baltimore, Dec. 1 (AP)—The state is in the market for a deputy game warden in Anne Arundel county.

Applications will be received by the state employment commissioner until Dec. 3 for the $1200-a-year post, left vacant when Warden Russell C. Turner was sworn in today as Anne Arundel's new sheriff.

Applicants accepted must take a merit system examination. If passed, they will be placed on an eligible list from which the game department must name Turner's successor. Fielder Crawford is acting deputy warden for the county.

Hysterical Children Tell Story Of Western School Bus Tragedy

Describe Scene Where More Than a Score Met Death

By MURLIN SPENCER

Salt Lake City, Dec. 1 (AP)—In a gray-stone hospital a blond, clean-shaven farmer bit his lips and addressing no one said: "I lost one boy five years ago; this one was all I had left."

As nurses led him into a side room he passed farmers and farmers' wives, some openly crying, the men comforting their women—parents of the more than a score of Jordan district school children killed when a freight train crashed roadside into a crowded school bus.

At the scene of the crash, two miles south of Midvale, a suburb, a long freight train stood still, unable to proceed because of a solid steel chassis wrapped around its cow-catcher and bent under its wheels.

Farmers and sheriff's deputies carrying canvas sacks and bushel baskets went about "picking up every little piece that's left" on the orders of Sheriff S. Grant Young.

Hysterical children, survivors of the crash told the story in short, jerky sentences. This is it.

Children Describe Crash

"The bus, picking up farm children to take them to the Jordan school high on a hill, was proceeding north. Close behind was 'the flying Ute,'" the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad's fastest freight—the train with a reputation of competing with passenger schedules. On level ground, between snow-covered fields, with no buildings to obstruct the view, the bus driver turned sharply to his right, started up a slight grade to the track and stopped. Then he went ahead.

"I thought I heard someone shout 'train' and then I saw something black coming, and that was all I knew," said 16-year-old Margie Groves, a passenger, whose only injury was a cut on the head.

Some Escape Death

The remainder of the story could be told from the wreck. The engine crashed into the orange colored bus, a little toward the front. The bus body was thrown to the left and as the heavy train stopped some of the children, pieces of the bus and the children's belongings were tossed about. Children thrown from the bus at the impact escaped with their lives.

As one man—a self-styled "bum" riding on an oil car, said, "I thought they were cattle. It was the awfullest thing I ever saw. None of the kids seemed to die right off; they screamed and moaned and then one by one the screaming stopped."

For the next four hours hysterical parents arrived at Salt Lake general hospital. They asked but one question: "Was my child—?"

Often attaches answered in the affirmative. The reaction from the parents was the same: to scream, or to break into sobbing or to stand mute.

"It was turgid out there on that track," said one nurse. "but it's just as tragic here."

Youthful Hunter Fatally Wounded

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—A three-year record of deer hunting without a fatality was broken today when Leo Hoak, 26, of Hampshire county was fatally wounded when he fell from a stump and his gun discharged.

With reports from nine counties, the first day kill grew to 248, with one animal drowned.

Ute—apparently struck the bus just ahead of its middle. The body of the bus was tossed nearly 100 yards to the left. The chassis was wrapped around the front of the engine and ground under the wheels.

Bodies were strewn along the right of way for half a mile before the heavy train stopped.

Crowds of weeping, shrieking mothers, fathers and classmates soon gathered at the scene. Pitiful attempts were made to identify the dead.

One of the survivors was Margie Groves, 16, of South Jordan.

"I got on the bus at 8:30 about two miles from the crossing," she said. "There must have been about 40 others in the bus with me."

"When we came to the crossing, we stopped and Mr. Silcox, the bus driver, started up again. I thought I heard someone yell 'train,' and then I saw something black coming from the right and it hit us."

"When I woke up I was lying in the snow near the bus. Two students I knew, Mack Bateman and Mabel Smith, were nearby. Mabel was lying near the bus and Mack was lying by a fence. I guess they're all right now."

"Awful Lot of Screaming"

"There was an awful lot of screaming and moaning. They were all just kids."

"And then they came and brought me to a hospital."

David Witter of Denver, riding on an oil tank close to the freight engine, said, "It was the awfullest thing I ever saw."

"None of them seemed to die right away. One by one they would stop screaming."

The 50-car freight train, half a mile long, was traveling so fast the caboose was on the crossing by the

Rumors of Cabinet Resignations Rife As Term Declines

Rumor Has It That Ick May Seek Chicago's Mayoralty

Shake-up of President 'Official Family' Not Unusual

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt's cabinet, intact nearly six years except for change due to death, is going into the second-term home 'stretch' in an atmosphere thick with rumors of resignations.

Speculation that Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes may decide to run for mayor of Chicago next year leaves only the members of the Roosevelt official family, secretaries, Hull, Morgenthau, and Wallace, as yet untouched by gossip that they may step before the present Roosevelt term ends.

There have been few if any cabinet circles of past two-term presidents which carried on even years as little changed as his. The end of a term and a half after the mid-term congressional elections, there has nearly always been a cabinet shake-up, due to an invariably to personal financial considerations, of the retiring portfolio-holders.

This process of cabinet breakage due to the desire of presidential advisors to find a niche for themselves again in more profitable private life has already set in with the Roosevelt cabinet. Attorney General Cummings' retirement led the way. Postmaster General Farley so clearly indicated his intention to step out, for several years at the same reasons, that his resignation soon is widely expected.

Retirements Voluntary

Beyond that, there are only gossip and indications of internal friction, some of it traced by politicians to ambitions of "little" cabinet members who hope to succeed if their chief retire, voluntarily or by White House request. That there will be such requests from the President is doubted by those of his aides who have known him longest and best.

Any direct step by the President to replace any of those desiring to carry on to the end of the present term would be promptly construed, insiders contend, as presidential weakening under the fire of adverse election results for his party. Mr. Roosevelt has never weakened under political or legal fire in his advocacy of the New Deal program, they say. Instead, he has fought back.

Thus it appears that if there is to be additional voluntary retirements from the Roosevelt cabinet before 1940, or even if some of the rumor-mongering about resignations-to-come has at least a wishful blessing at the White House, close associates of Mr. Roosevelt would be surprised if he took any steps publicly to shake up the circle that has surrounded him, only twice broken by death, since his 1933 inauguration.

Annabella and Tyrone Power

Movie fans in Rio de Janeiro were sure a romance was budding between Tyrone Power and Annabella as the young star and French actress confessed a sight-seeing tour of Brazil mostly to looking at each other. Here they are, folks, what do you think?

time it stopped, said Dr. J. S. Alley of Midvale, who brought victims to the hospital.

"The cab of the bus was tossed to one side, about 100 feet from the crossing," he said.

Most of the victims were from Bluffdale, Riverton, South Jordan, Crescent and Herriman, small communities a few miles south of Salt Lake City.

Saw Bus and Train

June Wynn, 16, who was standing in the doorway of her home 300 yards from the crossing, said, "I saw the bus and the train coming and wondered whether the bus was going to stop. It did stop, and then pulled onto the track directly in front of the train."

"I heard the crash, then screams. When the front of the train got opposite me, I could see the frame of the bus still on the engine."

"The train started slowing down immediately. My father and I rushed to the track, and trainmen told us to go back and call ambulances."

"It was foggy and snowing. I wouldn't have been able to see the train or bus if they both hadn't had their lights on. I did not hear the train whistle."

W. E. Speakman, Denver and Rio Grande Western chief clerk, said 26 dead had been counted, but official estimates at the hospital were repeatedly revised.

Late today the list stood at 21 dead with, said a hospital physician, "possibly four or five more bodies to be assembled from the torn remains gathered in boxes and canvas sacks."

20 Taken to Hospitals

Of 20 survivors admitted to the hospital, one died, five were sent home after first aid treatment and 14 remained at the hospital.

Among the dead was Don Silcox, younger brother of the driver.

Gov. Henry H. Blood issued a proclamation of sympathy for the grief stricken families, and separate state and county investigations were ordered.

W. K. Granger, state public service commissioner, said the crossing often had been considered for a train-actuated signal, but installation had been delayed because the road was so infrequently traveled.

Educational Front To Save Democracy Urged by Speakers

Baltimore, Dec. 1 (AP)—High officials of the National Municipal League assailed dictatorships tonight and urged a united educational front to "preserve democracy" in the United States.

C. A. Dykstra, president of the University of Wisconsin, painted a word picture of "democracies crashing to their doom on every hand."

He urged that in the United States the schools, the press, the radio and the screen, unite to "give the American people an understanding of the problems facing our civilization and democracy."

The league's vice president, Marguerite M. Wells, president of the National League of Women Voters, referred to "a world where Democracies are knocked down like ten pins," and added:

"It has been popular to say that Democracy is a neutral thing and makes no call upon the fighting spirit which is felt in Communism where a class is fighting for ascendancy or in Fascism where a nation is fighting for ascendancy. On the contrary, what could put more fight into a man than threat at the loss of his freedom? x x x"

Their statements in prepared addresses at the annual banquet followed an assertion by Dean Charles W. Ackerman, of the School of Journalism at Columbia University in opening the League's 44th annual meeting, that in the United States:

"The power to tax plus the power to regulate make x x x make a dictatorship inevitable because it may be necessary for government to take over all agencies of public opinion in order to maintain its power to tax and to regulate."

Will Their Feud Bring Another Cabinet Change?

Not in Kentucky, but in the War Department building in Washington, there's said to be a feud so intense that a virtual "No Man's Land" exists between the offices of Secretary of War Harry Woodring and Assistant Secretary Louis Johnson. According to reports, selection of Colonel Johnson to direct the new national defense, has caused a near-breath between the two and has led to reports that Johnson very soon may succeed Woodring as war secretary. According to some, Johnson has been quoted he took the second position with an understanding he eventually would succeed Woodring. The latter's friends in turn charge "sabotage." Johnson's calls upon Woodring are infrequent, it is said.

Mountain Scenery Surpasses Europe

So Declares Baltimore City Professor about West Virginia

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—West Virginia has scenery "far surpassing anything that Europe can offer," says Professor Fred R. Koeltz, of the Baltimore city college faculty "but the trouble with you people is that you don't let the nation know what you have to offer."

Addressing members of the Women's club, Koeltz said that upon returning from Europe and realizing that West Virginia had such a potential store of attractions for tourists, his feeling was one of irritation.

"Irritation," he said, "because you apparently want to keep covered, or keep the rest of the world from knowing about the marvelous beauty with which nature has blessed your state.

"The irritation was increased somewhat later," Koeltz went on, "after I read a magazine article ridiculing the 'civilization' of West Virginia."

HME advocated series of newspaper articles in the eastern press extolling the merits of travel through West Virginia, and added:

"Tourists this summer will be traveling west of the San Francisco exposition, and east to the New York world's fair. Why don't you women and other women like you see that a fair percentage of those tourists travel through West Virginia?"

Analyzing the population centers of the country, Koeltz said that West Virginia lies at the crossroads of the arteries connecting the eastern seaboard and the mid-western states. Those highways, he said, would be much more heavily traveled "if the tourists just knew what they are passing up when they pass up West Virginia."

Winter Play Suits Should Be In The Child's Wardrobe

So Advises Clothing Specialist Of The University Of Maryland

A play suit for "everyday" wear has now become a definite part of a child's wardrobe, according to Miss Helen Shelby, clothing specialist for the University of Maryland Extension Service, and she emphasizes, many mothers like to make play suits rather than purchase them ready-made.

The experienced shopper has learned that the heaviest fabrics are not necessarily the warmest. Ability to shut out wind or dampness and hold a layer of air next to the body is what makes a fabric warm. Good play suit materials are flexible and pliable enough not to hamper the movements of the child. Neither will they prick or irritate the skin at the neck, wrists, and ankles.

Must Be Durable
A winter play suit must be durable.

able and cleanable. Wool fabrics are satisfactory, but some of them have to be dry-cleaned. Some mothers who feel that washable clothing is preferable for children use two play suits, one over the other. The outer one is selected for its ability to turn wind, rain, or snow, but the purchaser or maker is careful to see that it is lightweight and washable. The inner suit is selected to add warmth; it is possible of wool, and can be omitted on milder days.

Miss Shelby points out that the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in its Bureau of Home Economics, has developed several types of warm, roomy, light-weight, easily put on play suits for children. It does not have patterns, but at least one commercial company has embodied the best of ideas in a practical pattern. For children between 2 and 6 years the Bureau recommends the one-piece, unbelted, loose fitting play suits. No matter how active the play, a one-piece outfit will not pull apart at the waist and let in cold as do two-piece suits with waist length jackets.

A Real Hindrance
Another objection to two-piece suits for little children is that extra thickness around the waist is a real hindrance to the stooping that is so much a part of their play. It is especially important to see that ample room is provided so that the wearer will not be hindered in climbing, stooping, and bending. Boxing through the crotch and dart tucks set in both below the waistband and at the side seams in line with the bend of the hips provide the necessary room. Trousers must have extra width and length in the seat, with wide, roomy legs bunched over stretchy knit bands at the ankle. Some growth in the child should be allowed for.

Relief and Politics

A POLL by Dr. Gallup, of the American Institute of Public Opinion, has disclosed that seventy-five per cent of the voters of the country would like to see all officials of the Works Progress Administration put into the Civil Service. The reason assigned is a general resentment over the playing of politics in the relief organization.

As for the other twenty-five per cent, some believe the WPA would continue to be political and perhaps corrupt under Civil Service, some think the business of relief should be in local rather than in federal hands, and still others, an important group, feared the utilization of the Civil Service would make the relief organization permanent and did not want to the idea of having it around for all time.

While it is evident that Democrats and Republicans alike, regardless of statistical differences, would like to see politics out of the relief picture, it is a pertinent question whether some of those favoring it have been blinded in this instance by its past usefulness into overlooking the possibility that, Democrats being in control, this might be a scheme to freeze them into office after the retirement of the existing regime.

Anyway, the poll indicates that the people generally are pretty sick and tired of the Hopkins management and the present set-up, which should be radically changed by the new Congress.

It Benefits All

WHERE is there a man with senses so dull he cannot derive supreme satisfaction from the sight of sidewalks and stores jammed with Christmas shoppers? There is none.

Nothing so pleases the merchant for he measures his own prosperity by the size of the shopping crowd. But it is not only the business man who can take satisfaction in the congested stores and streets which mark this particular season of the year.

To the factory worker these crowds mean employment and good wages. To the citizen of any community these crowds mean prosperity for his home town or city. To society these crowds mean peace and the lightening of the burden placed upon society by the dependent.

One thing most Christmas-gift buyers overlook is that the gift benefits not alone the recipient. The Christmas shopper is placing capital at the command of industry and business, giving employment to labor and giving to the community its very life-blood—business. Recognition of this fact makes even easier and pre-Christmas conversion of hoarded dollars into gifts.

Like a boomerang, the money society spends for its Christmas shopping comes back to it. From producer to consumer to producer again—and all men are producers either with their capital or their labor.

Red Dyes or Dry Reds

YOU REMEMBER when we had prohibition-lets all over the premises? Why, of course, you do, unless you are very, very young. And you know all about those Communists who are hiding under beds and in other odd places at this very moment.

But did you ever hear of a Communist Prohibitionist or a Prohibitionist-Communist? Maybe not; but the Bulgarian government has. And the Bulgarian government does not purpose to stand any funny business from such fellows.

So the Bulgarian ministry of the interior has dissolved all temperance organizations in that country. The total membership of these dry outfits is estimated at 50,000; and the Bulgarian government insists that many, if not most, of the members are bold, bad Reds. The Communists, Sofia authorities say, have been using the dry organizations for dissemination of Red propaganda. So out the Red dyes or dry Reds must go.

Incidentally, a Sofia dispatch says that Bulgaria, with a population of 6,000,000 consumes annually almost 40,000,000 gallons of wine, 5,280,000 of brandy and 1,850,000 of beer. The number of saloons and restaurants is 20,000—one for every 300 inhabitants, including women and children.

That sheds a little light on this latest anti-Red crusade. No wonder the Bulgarian government wants to send those dyes back whence they came.

Too Much Fruit?

A NEWS STORY from Anaheim, Cal., in the center of the greatest citrus fruit belt of America, tells of growers busily engaged in destroying several thousand carloads of oranges. A member of the California-Arizona Marketing Committee is quoted as saying, "There simply is too much fruit."

It is difficult to reconcile his statement with the number of watering mouths in this country. How can there be too much fruit? Why should thousands of carloads be sprayed with oil and destroyed by fire?

One may be sympathetic with producers who turn out more produce than, in the opinion of the California marketing committee member, "consumers are willing to pay for at prices which would make marketing profitable." He says there were fully 10,000 carloads of oranges more than "the growers felt they could market in an orderly manner." So the surplus of the embarrassingly large crop was burned at the stake.

So here, we take it, is another of the many problems for which Secretary Wallace seeks but does not find an answer. It reminds us again of the little pigs who went to a wasted end because the New Economy could find no way to use them for their nominal purpose and at the same time "save the market."

Early in the season the federal government was prevailed upon to set up a fund of $360,000 to divert surplus oranges from the market, the diversion to be by means of taking lesser grades out of competition with the best of the fresh crop. These diverted oranges were to be used for stock feed, extraction of essential oils or fertilizer but not for direct sale as fresh fruit or for canning. After the fund had been exhausted and 45,000 tons of oranges so diverted, the packing houses found their floors still loaded with millions of oranges of the lesser grades. Nothing that government has yet done solves the problem of surpluses.

Henderson's Proposals

IT SEEMS quite likely that the new Congress will not only debate proposed amendments of the Wagner Labor Relations act but that some improvement of the measure will be enacted.

Of interest in this connection are the revisions proposed by Representative C. Arthur Henderson, a former Missouri prosecuting attorney, who was among the contingent of new Democrats sent to the House of Representatives, who seeks to "pave the way for the union members to free themselves from the clutches of racketeers."

In order to do that, Henderson would amend the act to provide that workers be free from coercion and intimidation from all persons, including other employees and labor organizations "so that every man shall have the right to decide, without any coercion whatever, whether he wants to join a union and, if so, what union."

The representative would also limit the authority of the National Labor Relations Board to judicial functions, and eliminate those provisions of the law which "prohibit courts from reviewing the facts of evidence and judicially considering the preponderance of or the weight of evidence."

As things stand at present, Henderson says, "It is possible for a gang of thugs, through coercion and intimidation of the members, to gain control of some of the unions and thereby bleed the workers of their incomes and cause serious rifts in their otherwise peaceful relations with employers."

Admitting that there are few men of the racketeering type in organized labor, Henderson says "It is also true that their conduct and character are tearing down the reputation of organized labor to such an extent that they must be driven out."

Union men can only be in sympathy with any effort to achieve the desirable end sought by Representative Henderson, but they will, of course, be cautious that in doing so none of the rights to which they are entitled will be jeopardized.

Beauty In Milk Bottle

DRINK MILK, says the Milk Industry Foundation, not only for health but also for beauty.

Well, we favor both, and as the healthful ingredients of milk are well known, its use can be advocated.

Milk, a chief source of calcium, most important of the protective foods, is rich in vitamins and mineral salts. As a beverage it promotes health, helps create good teeth, supplies minerals for strong, supple bones, gives lustre to the hair and isn't fattening.

Naturally good health should promote good looks, or, at any rate, better looks. But, along with milk drinking, one should get fresh air, sunshine, rest and exercise.

A rumored return to old-fashioned horse-hair furniture is held in abeyance, it now appears, until Grand Rapids finds a horse.

If you have any doubts about the efficiency of our school system, try helping Junior out with his home work some night.

Now that shingles are being made of concrete some of us can be very glad we have grown up.

A little Ohio girl of six knows no words, almost paralleling the strange case of Vice President Garner.

The Car That Wouldn't Stay "Tuned"

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I had an old car—this was in the war and a fantastically long time ago—that wouldn't stay "tuned."

It was an old-style Ford with an ambulance body on it and it would go nearly everywhere that I had to go. But it was never quite right.

Between trips to the front I spent most of my time working on that old car. . . . The gasoline was black and dirty and every hundred miles or so the carbon, as thick as a thirty-day beard, had to be scraped off. And if you think it's fun scraping carbon in a French winter, you've never scraped carbon in a French winter. . . . And the carburetor was always sticking. The float stayed up when it should have stayed down or down instead of up. It was a nuisance.

That old-style Ford, you may remember, had a planetary transmission with fibre bands. And those bands in wartime, in France, seemed nothing more than strips of cotton as substantial as a lamp wick. They were constantly shredding to pieces. So every few days you had to replace them. Which meant that you took the cover off the transmission and worked, head down, with a little wrench and a pair of pliers. Sometimes you dropped a nut inside and had to fish for it in the oily muck. . . . The tires weren't so good, either. They went to pieces in the heat and cold and we were always sweating them off with the irons and sticking patches on holes. . . . And bearings burned out and coil boxes got wet.

So it was a great triumph if your car had good tires, no carbon, new bands, a working carburetor, and clicking coils. ALL ON THE SAME DAY. . . . Nevertheless we loved those old cars. After you've worked a thousand hours on a piece of machinery you know better than you know yourself, you've put a part of yourself into it. You may wonder how it keeps going at all, but you boast about its performance and it is geared to your very heart-strings.

So I grieved when at last I said goodbye to that old car of mine. I never did get it completely "tuned up" but I loved it just the same. . . . Its memory has helped me since at times when I've been tempted to fuss at life because neither does it ever get wholly "tuned up" and because, whatever you do, there's always something that isn't quite right.

That old Ford was never quite right, either, but it went places and did its job and never had to be towed in. . . . And what more can a man ask of a car?

Lame Ducks Keep
Marvin McIntyre
Awake Nights

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

Washington, D. C. Dec. 1—Presidential Private Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre, as principal White House contact man, always is a busy individual.

However, since the last election he simply has been swamped with applications for interviews with the "chief" on the subject for sought-for federal appointments in behalf of deserving men.

who, on November 8, lost seats in Congress. Most of these gentlemen were loyal pluggers on Capitol Hill for Rooseveltian policies during one, two, three or more sessions past. They're entitled to consideration and the executive mansion recognizes it. Moreover, they are pretty prominent men; not very easy to stall off, like ordinary pests.

The fact remains that there are not nearly enough vacancies to go around among them. They want middling good jobs, too—worth at least $10,000 annually.

The administration semi-foresees what was coming. It knew it would have a sizable bunch of lame ducks on its hands and had some posts earmarked to provide for a moderate number of them. The trouble is that there are about three times as many aspirants as had been counted on.

Of course positions never are available in proportion to the throngs of candidates, but normally the average candidate isn't of sufficient consequence to get by the outer office. A beaten "honorable" has to have a hearing. It's due to him as a matter of form. It may be due to him as a matter of gratitude; perhaps he was licked because of his pro-New Deal record. Besides, it always is possible that he still has a good bit of influence at home.

Around eighty of these folk clamoring at the secretary's office door keep the colonel (Kentucky Colonel McIntyre) on the jump, plus his other duties. Like a policeman's, a presidential secretary's lot "is not a happy one."

The District of Columbia's lot isn't happy, either.

The District (mainly Washington) has three seats on its local judicial bench just to be filled.

Everywhere else throughout the United States such judges (and they're fully as classy as state supreme judges anywhere) are chosen by state election, from that state's local bar.

But the District of Columbia has no electoral system. Its judges are presidentially appointed. They can come from anywhere—from Podunk, Washington, from Four Corners, Florida, or from any place else. The D. C. bar maintains that the D. C. appointees should come from its own local bar. It knows that they won't, however—that they'll come from out in the sticks, to satisfy demands from out there. Who cares for the voteless D. C.?

And does that make the D. C. bar sore? Oh, my!

Predicament's Funny

The voteless District's predicament is funny, in its way.

Washington is a big city, after all—fairly well up in a class with New

Too Much Oil

From the Morgantown, W. Va., Post

Here is an odd bit of news. Great Britain has no oil wells, but must import from other countries all the oil she consumes. Nevertheless, Britain imposes an import tax on fuel oil at a rate equivalent to 3 cents a gallon.

The United States has so much oil that we are constantly hearing talk of the need of conserving production to keep from flooding the market. And yet we impose an import tax of only 1/2 cent a gallon on crude and fuel oil, which is now pouring into this country at the rate of 50 million barrels a month.

It is little wonder that the independent oil producers and the soft coal industry are joining together in a co-operative effort to induce Congress to impose a higher tax on oil imports.

There is some reason to imagine that winter conditions are specially favorable to produce friendships. In summer you go off on popular frolics, and people flood the roads of the nation in their cars. But these pursuits don't draw people very closely together. You don't make many friends just by hollering at a ball game.

Winter drives people indoors, and tells them to create social life. That draws people close together. When you serve on some committee with somebody, you get closer to that person in an evening than you would in a week of general hilarity of the good old summer time.

Light Is Thrown on Planned Economy Here by Strike Situation in France

By MARK SULLIVAN

Washington, Dec. 1—In France this week government troops, to meet the threat of a general strike, took positions guarding the country's electric, water, and gas plants.

This incident deserves understanding because of its own importance. It further calls for understanding for the light it throws on a condition that affects most of the world, including the United States.

To understand this French incident, to get from it the light it has for America, it is necessary to go back some twenty years.

There is throughout the world a controversy between two schools of thought about society and government. Its beginning goes back to 1917 in Russia. In that country a school of thought called Communism arose and established itself.

Its beginning goes back to 1917 in Russia. In that country a school of thought called Communism arose and established itself. As soon as it felt firmly rooted in Russia it set out to establish itself in other countries. In Italy and Germany, Communism did not succeed in establishing itself. Instead, there arose a counter school of thought which can be called Nazi-Fascism.

Spread Over the World

Thus began the controversy between Communism and Nazi-Fascism which has spread throughout the world. In no country are the lines of the controversy identical with the lines in any other country. In every country where the two schools of thought arise and contend, each is modified by local conditions and by the separate national traditions of each country.

Yet everywhere the controversy follows the same broad pattern.

About June 1936 the controversy reached France. There was set up in France a movement called the "Popular Front." The French Popular Front was not identical with Communism, not by any means. Yet as between the two schools of thought engaged in world-wide conflict, the French Popular Front pointed in the direction of the Communist philosophy.

Imitated Planned Economy

The French Popular Front in several respects imitated the American "planned economy." At that time the early part of 1936, America was experiencing the period of economic prosperity that was attributed to the New Deal's planned economy. Planned economy, for the time, looked good. It was just before, on October 23, 1935, that President Roosevelt, exulting over the apparently dawning prosperity, said, "We planned it that way."

The French Popular Front followed the American steps of minimizing the idea of balancing the budget, of assuming that prosperity could be achieved by heavy government expenditures, of controlling the output of industry and agriculture, of controlling prices, of reducing working hours and raising wages. In technique the French Popular Front followed the American New Deal strategy of attack upon vested interests, "economic royalists." As the American New Deal attacked "sixty families," the French Popular Front attacked "200 families," the families who controlled the Bank of France. The private control of the Bank of France was due for a wholesale overhauling. But the purpose for which the French Popular Front wanted control of the Bank of France was in large part to finance what the Popular Front was attempting.

In Two Practices

The fundamental parallel between the French Popular Front and the American New Deal lies principally in two practices: heavy government borrowing and spending, accompanied by limitation of the production of true wealth, of commodities. That pair of practices, where-ever carried on, leads to but one end. The inevitable end is lowered standard of living.

The French Popular Front lasted two years. It came to an end largely for one reason—the money ran out. France, with an enormous national debt already, could not stand the cost.

When the Popular Front came to an end in France, there ensued what what has happened in every country (excepting Russia) where the Communist trend of thought has attempted to establish itself. With failure of that school of thought there arose the Nazi-Fascist school. What France faces today is a rigidity of control following Nazi-Fascist lines. Today, the French workers, who were supposed to be the beneficiaries of the Popular Front, find themselves threatened by the bayonets of government and by the harsh control that accompanies the Nazi-Fascist philosophy.

End In Sight Here

In America we could go on with planned economy for many years yet. We have the fat with which to pay the price. We have a very much smaller national debt than France and infinitely greater resources. Our experiment over a period of five years has cost us some twenty billion dollars in increased national debt. We could go on with yet another increase of twenty billion before reaching the condition that compelled France to quit.

Apparently, however, our American experiment is going to come to an end. It seems about to end as a result of a majority of the people coming to see the fallacy of it. What now appears probable in America is that we shall drop that part of the New Deal that is fundamentally collectivist in principle, that part which is basically inconsistent with the American tradition of individualism. We shall keep that part of the New Deal that consists merely of reforms of our own system.—Copyright, 1938.

An Embarrassing Suggestion

From the Johnstown, Pa., Tribune

Judge Curtis Bok of Philadelphia has put Governor Earle in an embarrassing spot by suggesting that steps be taken by the Governor to impeach Mayor S. Davis Wilson.

The judge's action was prompted by the presentation of the special October (1937) grand jury relative to the personal financial transactions of Mayor Wilson. The judge also requests further financial aid for continuance of the grand jury.

Governor Earle probably would enjoy nothing better than to cause the impeachment of Philadelphia's Mayor, who opposed the Governor in the Democratic primaries for the nomination for United States Senator. The Mayor pulled no punches in his campaign attacks against Mr. Earle, and the latter would be something less than human if he did not harbor ideas of revenge.

But the Governor is on record as opposed to grand juries and their findings. He assembled the State Legislature in an effort to prevent investigation of charges of fraud and corruption lodged against himself.

The fundamental parallel between the French Popular Front and the American New Deal lies principally in two practices: heavy government borrowing and spending, accompanied by limitation of the production of true wealth, of commodities. That pair of practices, where-

The Human Side Of the News

LY EDWIN C. HILL

The New York World's Fair, the "City of Tomorrow," will revive at least one institution which was famous back in the 80's and 90's. Mr. Grover Whalen's big show will have "the longest bar in the world." There have been many such in bibulous and tuncful, if not altogether happy legend, from the gold camps of the old West to the cross-roads of empire and the capitals of the world.

We may have the biggest headache or the biggest debt in the world, but it has been a long time since we have been bragging about the longest bar. We have turned rather to snug little bistros, less conspicuous than the old bars, usually co-educational, Neon-lighted and much more decorous, and, of course, much more expensive. The ego expands and soars a lot less than it did with five-cent beer and two-for-a-quarter cocktails.

If they run the fair for thirty or forty years, the bar may take on some of the distinctive qualities of some of the mellow tradition which made memorable the old Hanna and Hogg's bar in Chicago, the Bank Exchange, Harry Plannery's and the Waldorf in San Francisco, the Silver Dollar bar in Denver, the Shanghai cocktail bar, that old bar of all nations in Berlin; Kelly place in Caliao and a score of others where life was bold and untrammelled—as long as you had the price.

They're done for now, most of them, and possibly it's good ridance, but they were, in their way, the safety valves of a free age, an our male citizenry valved off a little of steam that otherwise might have created serious inner tensions.

Feel They Are Let Down

A friend of mine, just back from the Far East, tells me that the famous Shanghai cocktail bar, longer than a wet week, is superficially unchanged, still maintaining some what the character of a British club. But there is actually a profound and disquieting change. The ruddy British patrons of the old trading clubs feel they have been let down by the Japanese, and they are weeping into their drinks.

The Chinese never really have knuckled down to extra-territorial domination. They never quite caught the pace of the Western world, a carload to many of the British who have welcomed the coming of the Japanese. They might have thought that the invaders would put the Chinese in their place, and the British would receive the respect to which they assumed they were entitled.

It isn't working out that way. The stalwarts of the bar don't seem to be getting much respect from either Chinese or Japanese. They feel the nippers of Nippon tightening on the white man East of Sun, no matter how much he may raise his throat.

Last of the Kind

The late Tex Rickard had one of those "longest bars" in his Northern Saloon, at Goldfield, Nev., which operated with Ole Elliott, a fellow "sourdough" from Alaska. That was about the last flare-up of just this kind of local color—in America. The nightly gathering of desert rats, prospectors, mushers, tinhorn blue-grass peddlers, boomers, broken high-graders, tinhorn gamblers, bootmen—some fakes and some certified—constituted a hit-and-run of possibly shoot-and-run populace quite unlike any similar assemblage in America, before or since.

The gambling tables were loaded with twenty-dollar goldpieces. The games were faro, keno, craps, roulette, twenty-one-and-a-half, and others, comprising the full mining-camp-desert repertoire.

The cast included the last authentic types of dealers, look-out men and case-keepers, surviving now only in fiction. The dealer with his pasty face and black cowlick, little, black, watchful eyes, a moist, dead cigarette drooping from his mouth, his tie knotted through a carved poker chip, black steen sleeve coverings held by a red elastic band. The look-out on his dais, usually with a black slouch hat and white walrus moustache, as imposing and judicial as the United States Supreme Court.

They may make their World's Fair bar longer than the Brooklyn Bridge, but it will be a stage without a play. The curtain has been rung down. The play is over.—Copyright, 1938.

and 13 of his political associates, and he has employed every device known to his Attorney General to delay action since the Supreme Court's decision holding unconstitutional the legislation enacted at his command. He also attempted to have enacted a law abolishing grand jury action against public officials.

How, then, can the Governor consistently move against Mayor Wilson? What is fish for him cannot be made fowl for his political enemy. He will have to do some very agile sidestepping to dodge this problem.

Top Criminals Not Known By Children, Police Head Says

Cites Fact As Showing That Crime Does Not Pay

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—Any child, said Walter V. McLaughlin, can tell you that mass crime has been brought under control in the United States.

"In other words," the chief of the Huntington office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said, "the children today can't recite the names of the nationally known criminals."

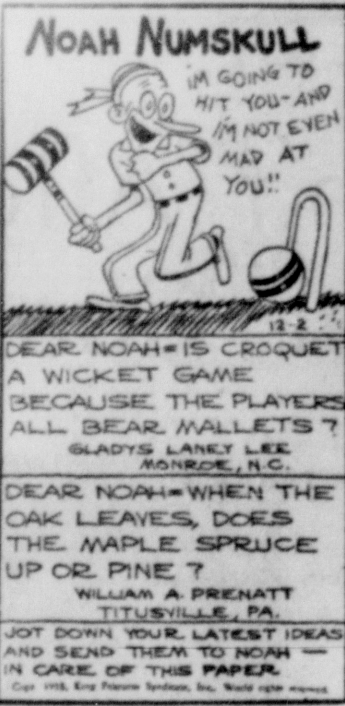

This hasn't always been the case, the FBI chief pointed out.

"Several years ago," said McLaughlin, "any child in the nation could have listed the top criminals, such as John Dillinger, 'Pretty Boy' Floyd, 'Baby Face' Nelson, Alvin Karpis, 'Machine Gun' Kelly, and a host of others. But ask them to name the big ones today."

"The fact that they, and adults as well, can't name them, is ample proof that 'crime does not pay.'"

"In other words," McLaughlin added, "the big shots have been put out of business."

McLaughlin attributes the downfall of organized crime chiefly to twisting, turning path of the criminal.

"Crime in the strict police sense of the word is not only committed by criminals," the chief added.

"The law enforcement officer must not only look to the man with a gun in his hand, but also to those apparently respectable members of society who aid and abet the underworld under a cloak of respectability."

Category Is Listed

In this category, McLaughlin listed the unethical physician who attempts to change facial features and mutilate fingertips; lawyers of the type of Louis Piquette, the Dilliger "mouthpiece," convicted on a charge of warning the desperado of efforts and plans of law enforcement officers; the juror who permits personal or business motives to sway his verdict; the grafting politician, and those spineless members of the public who withhold information that might "break" a case.

The politician who protects the criminal McLaughlin termed the "Charlie McCarthy" of the underworld.

"To all of these," he added "it is up to the public to recognize and treat them for what they are— betrayers of the public trust."

HOLIDAY BARGAIN HUNTERS LEARN WHISKEY ECONOMY

Out of 1,000 Men who Sampled Old Quaker—Now 3 Years Old—960 Found it Superbly Mellow and Rich in Flavor—Confirming Our Belief that Old Quaker Rivals Many Higher Priced Whiskies!

One thousand men were asked to try Old Quaker and give us their frank opinion. None knew the name of the whiskey he was trying—yet 960 found Old Quaker rich in flavor, mild and delightfully smooth—confirming our belief that Old Quaker is an amazing bargain at its rock-bottom price.

Try Old Quaker yourself. If you agree with these 960 men—here's the direct way for you to save money on whiskey that's rich and mellow enough for the holidays.

Many Samples Of Water Are Tested By State Experts

Menagerie Is Maintained By West Virginia For Analyses

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—Just about "water, water everywhere and never a drop to drink" at the state hygienic laboratory.

But if it weren't that way, then many of West Virginia's people wouldn't be able to trust their drinking water.

The laboratory examines some 2,000 samples yearly from state wells and reservoirs.

Milk, too, from dairies throughout the state is sent in for testing, the average of twenty samples a day. But that isn't all.

The laboratory maintains a good-sized menagerie for testing purposes, including Eustace, the not-so-meek sheep. His blood is used in syphilis serology tests.

There are guinea pigs, mice and rabbits—most of them bred in the laboratory—which are used by the fifteen workers.

Some of them produce typhoid vaccine, hundreds of gallons of which are released without charge each year for the immunization of West Virginians.

White mice get the call when it comes to rabies tests.

And here's a tip from Miss Katherine Cox, the laboratory director. Killing a dog believed mad is the worst possible step.

Animals which can infect people with rabies, she said, often show no microscopic evidence of the disease if they have been killed before they reach the paralytic stage.

However, should the animal have been killed, portions of its brain are inoculated into several mice. If they become ill, their brains are examined for the rabies bodies.

Other animals are constantly watched for evidence of infection with diphtheria, pneumonia, tuberculosis, food poisoning, amoebic dysentery and such diseases.

Stuffed Turnips

Stuffed turnips make an appetizing winter food. Boil turnips until they are tender, but not so soft that they cook out of shape. Cool and then carefully remove the centers. Stuff with cheese, rice, corn, or savory bread stuffing and bake about 15 minutes. These are easy to serve and make effective garnishes for the meat or fish platter.

Matrimony To Unwed Women

Three View Divorce As Frank Admission Of Preventable Failure.

BY GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.
Parents who have lived a fairly happy married life will rather heartily agree with the following discussion by three unmarried specialists in their book on the growth and development of the young child. These young women are Winifred Rand, Mary E. Sweeney and E. Lee Vincent, all of a prominent school in Detroit. Under these able experts have studied specialists in parent education from all parts of the world.

Since these authors look at the problem as scientific observers in a wholly objective manner, their remarks challenge our thoughtful consideration. To quote:

"Marriages which are successful do not end in divorce, for divorce is an acknowledgement of failure. Anything that is done to make marriage a success will therefore reduce the number of divorces. It is interesting to note that the usual attitude of anyone starting upon a life career is that he is determined to make a success of it. Failure in it is likely to be considered something of a disgrace, and one hesitates to acknowledge failure in a career until one has made a mighty effort to achieve success.

Attitude Not Same
"One does not find the same attitude prevalent toward the career of marriage. Groves says, 'It has become characteristic of our time not only to enter marriage under the spell of pleasure motives, but also to retreat from it just as soon as it ceases to advance happiness.' This attitude toward marriage is the inevitable result of the claim on the part of the individual for a right to happiness, without a realization of the individual's responsibility to attain that happiness through his own striving toward a goal.

"There is today little, if any, feeling of disgrace when one has failed in marriage. The divorce after all is not the disgrace it used to be considered. One may call that a frank acknowledgement of failure. The disgrace lies rather in the fact that two grown people who, in this age, are supposed to have received at least a fair amount of education, have entered upon marriage without preparation or without having developed within them an attitude toward marriage which would insure a chance, at least, of success.

"Marriage is such a personal affair, so dependent for success on the adjustment sexually, emotionally, intellectually, and, one may say, practically (for everyday living together assumes a very practical and of oftentimes humdrum aspect), that it is no easy matter to attain success. Certainly success will not be obtained without definitely striving for it."

ESCAPE much MISERY OF COLDS

Use specialized medication for nose and upper throat where most colds start

Helps Prevent Colds Developing—Don't wait until a miserable cold develops. At the very first warning sneeze, sniffle, or nasal irritation—put a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril immediately. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps to prevent the development of many colds.

Used in more homes than any other medication of its kind

LURLINE ULLER... knows value of recreation in keeping youthful.

By HELEN FOLLETT

THAT woman who enjoys health, good spirits and fine appearance is the one who does a bit of thinking about the art of living. She manages to get through the day without emotional storms, takes life as it comes, faces it with courage. What we are we look. Paste that on your looking glass and read it every day.

It isn't the woman who works hard that looks like the last rose of summer. It is how one feels about work, how one plans it and does it. There are women who putter all day long but accomplish nothing.

They're always tired. The highly-energized woman who puts in her time profitably doesn't waste her energies. Every step counts. When night comes, she is satisfied with her efforts. She rests well, starts the new day fresh.

How one's life is arranged has much to do with keeping youthful. There must be time for play as well as work. There must be some outdoor fun; without it a woman will feel that her very bones are milled. Fresh air, sunshine and exercise keep Old Man Time at a distance. He hasn't a chance to frost the treasuries, etch lines in the facial tissues and slow up the step.

Happiness Is Up To Optic Thalami

These Groups of Ganglia in Brain Are Centers For The Co-ordination of Sensation

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
IF WE examine a series of brains of the lower animals in an ascending scale up to man, we find that in the lower forms the top of the brain is given over to large masses of nervous ganglia which have to do with such things as smell, vision, hearing and motor co-ordination. The higher you go, the more these ganglia are covered over by real—it is difficult to find a word for it, but we will call it "thinking" tissue. When you get to the human brain, the "thinking" tissue is a great mass on top, and the ganglia that have to do with co-ordination are almost hidden underneath it.

But they are there just the same, and very important and necessary to our happiness they are, too. You have probably never heard of one of these groups of ganglia—the optic thalami—but the life, liberty and happiness of every one of you depend upon the intactness of your optic thalami.

Co-ordinate Sensation

The thalami are the centers for the co-ordination of sensation, as the cerebellum is the center for the co-ordination of motion.

It is not easy to describe just what the thalami do. They receive impressions of sense, especially those evoking pleasure and discomfort and consciousness of changes of state. Then they relay these to the higher brain centers. The higher centers are more discriminatory. For instance, if there is a disorder of the thalami, the patient says, "Something is happening to me; I am being hurt," instead of "You are sticking a pin into the back of my hand."

The usefulness of the thalami probably lies in the absorption and sorting out of sensations. We are constantly having more sensation than we can handle. The thalami receive all these and classify them and adjudicate them. If they are important, the thalami send them up to the big boss.

The cerebellum does the same sort of thing on the motor side. To my way of thinking, the cerebellum is the most marvelous organ in the human body. It is the only one that is absolutely perfect, and woe be unto you if you lose the governing of your cerebellum.

Here is what the cerebellum does. You are sitting in your chair read-

When washing rice, says an original person, I put it in a bowl with plenty of water, then beat it with the egg beater.

Must Be Time For Play, Too

Keeping Youthful Depends a Lot On How Your Life Is Arranged

So She Dragged Deer To Camp With Hankie

Butte, Mont., Dec. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Frank Marchesseau accompanied her husband into the big game country, but got tired of walking with him and so started back to the car. She sat down on a hillside in the sun—and just then some deer came over the ridge to browse.

"I picked out a three-pointer and let him have it with my 22," said Mrs. Marchesseau. "Just a plain 22, mind you, no fancy high speed or power model. The deer dropped in his tracks.

"I didn't have a rope along so I tied my handkerchief, which happened to be a large one, to his hind legs and dragged him to the car."

Benjamin Franklin is said to be the inventor of bifocal spectacles.

For Bronchitis Coughs, Colds

Buckley's Mixture Quickly Loosens Things Up

It's different—it's faster in action—it's compounded on superior, medical findings new in this country. BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE (triple acting) is the name of this amazing cough and cold prescription that "acts like a flash" yet is so pure and free from harmful drugs that a child can take it—and stop coughing.

One little sip and the ordinary cough is eased—a few doses and that tough old hang-on cough is "on its way"—it's really wonderful to watch how speedily hard lingering colds respond to Buckley's. Right away that tightness begins to loosen up—the bronchial passages clear—you're on your toes again—happy and breathing easier.

Get BUCKLEY'S—by far the largest-selling cough medicine in all cold Canada—today. At Cumberland Drug Company and druggists everywhere.

All Girls Need Business Training Asserts Woman Railroad Executive

By AURELIUS KINSEY
AP Feature Service Writer

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Mrs. Edith Jarvis Alden used to play in the home offices of the Burlington Railroad at Burlington, Iowa, when she was a little girl. Today, at 54, she is secretary of the road, the first woman high executive the Burlington has had in its eighty-eight years of existence.

"Big business offers women many opportunities," Mrs. Alden says "and one of the best ways for a woman to attain success is to understand that she is participating in a man's world and should adapt herself to do things a man's way."

Striking Out Alone

"I believe every girl should have business training, regardless of her station in life. She may have her heart set upon marriage and family as a career but a little knowledge of business requirements and methods will help her understand better some of the husband's problems. And, too, she may have to strike out alone and support herself some day."

As far back as Mrs. Alden can remember someone in her family worked for the Burlington road. Her uncle, Walter J. Jarvis; her father, Harry E. Jarvis, and her older brother, Fred S. Jarvis, were secretaries to Burlington presidents or division superintendents.

As a child she heard the Burlington's business, board meetings, mortgages and policies discussed time and again. So it seems natural to her that the Burlington should be the major part of her life now.

Started During War

Mrs. Alden started to work for the railroad during the World War. She helped handle Liberty Bond sales to its employees. She continued with the road and recently was elected to succeed Charles L. Sturgis, 78, as secretary, when he retired after 58 years of service.

Railroading offers a few opportunities to women, Mrs. Alden says, but she doesn't think that they are greater than those in any other business. Her work, for instance, is filled with details, legal interpretations and application that thrill her, but might bore the next woman.

She tried mixing housework and business, but found the days were too short for both. So she stuck to railroading.

The Aldens were separated by divorce in 1923. Mrs. Alden lives with her twenty-six-year-old son John Jarvis Alden. His interests lean toward radio, advertising, music and writing. The two enjoy a close companionship.

Mrs. Alden has a variety of hobbies, topped by her desire to grow flowers, get out into the open country, swim and travel. She chooses books relating the experiences of others in foreign lands, likes good, fast-moving mystery yarns and won't play cards because she would rather visit than worry about suits, bids or scores.

She is president of one and a member of another Chicago business and professional women's club and draws a line between these and purely social organizations. She prefers the business women's groups, she says, because there she finds hard-headed, hard-working members of her sex who are striving for recognition in a man's world.

Wanted in Natchez

Welch, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—Police Chief Dean Spencer, of North Fork, said authorities had informed him that Jerry Jackson, held on a drunk charge, was wanted in Natchez, Miss., for questioning about a slaying.

Killed by Slate Fall

Williamson, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—Joseph Butcher, 52, was killed by a slate fall in the Stirrat mine of the West Virginia Coal and Coke Company.

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? Bread, meat, potatoes? No wonder you're constipated; you probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It means the kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines. It's this mass that helps a bowel movement.

The common sense thing to do is to eat a natural laxative food. Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast may give you just the "bulk" you need. And it gives you, in addition, Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B. All-Bran is not a drug, not a medicine. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Equatorial Africa Where Jews May Find Home

Tanganyika, on the east African coast, has been prominently mentioned as a refuge and permanent home for Jews anxiously awaiting evacuation from Germany. Shown at right are two views of the former German colony, taken over by Great Britain after the World War. The map, above, shows the location of Tanganyika, which borders on the Indian ocean.

Gold Mining In Alaska Not So Profitable Now

Parsons, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—Gold mining isn't what it used to be in the land of the midnight sun.

For instance, Jerry Harvey, Jr., who has been prospecting in Alaska, cited these wages for gold miners:

"About 400 men work in the mill at Juneau, receiving $5.50 per day for eight hours of labor. Inside the mines the pay is $6.75 for machine workers and the miner gets $3. Contract mining pays on an average of $11 per day."

Even the dog teams, to most everyone an integral part of the picture of the frozen north, are going.

"They're being replaced now by too.

airplanes," said Harvey. "We have good mail service in Alaska. The planes can go practically anywhere. They are used a great deal by prospectors in all parts of the country. Since they can be landed on the lakes and the smaller streams in the winter."

But Alaska is still a frontier country. "Deer, bear, wolves, caribou and elk are quite plentiful," said Harvey. "Most of them stay in the mountains during the summer, then head for the islands in the winter."

Household Hint

Never let baked custard pies or puddings stand in a warm room after they have cooled. Store them in a cold place. This is very important. As soon as pumpkin pies are cool, place them in a cold place.

Be Active If You Would Live Long

So Advises West Virginia Woman Nearing the Age of 102

Sutton, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—Keep active—that is Mrs. Mary Ann Slaver's secret for longevity.

Mrs. Slaver, who on December 17 will celebrate her 102nd birthday in the house to which she came as a bride seventy-eight years ago, makes her own bed, washes her own clothing, gardens in the summers and during the cold months, keeps potted plants in her room.

Every now and then, Mrs. Slaver admits, a slight attack of grippe or rheumatism has been a bit "bothersome," but aside from that "I've never had a sick day in my life."

When the Civil War started, Mrs. Slaver was raising one child, to whose grandchildren she now tells how she stayed at home while the men went to the nearby towns to air in repelling invaders. One sister, Mrs. Barbara Rogers of Webster Springs, is still living, and soon some of the grandchildren are planning to take Mrs. Slaver to visit her.

"Barbara ought to come and see me," said Mrs. Slaver. "She is younger than I am."

Prize Winning Tobacco To Be Sold At Auction

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—Prize tobacco samples entered in Huntington's first annual tobacco festival will be sold at auction at the opening of the regular market Dec. 7. Col. George S. Wallace, managing director of the festival announced.

"Sale of this prize tobacco will be watched with interest as an object lesson of the market that awaits really fine and well-prepared tobacco in this territory," Col. Wallace said.

A. L. Lancaster, manager of the warehouse auction, said heavy sales are anticipated during the two-week period preceding the holiday suspension. Sales on the Huntington market have ranged from 3,000,000 to 7,000,000 pounds in recent years, he said, adding "this represents more than $1,000,000 in cash to growers during the 40-day sale period." Last year the opening day's average was $26.43 a hundred pounds. The season's high was $28.37 and the low $13.48.

The most forged of all signatures is that of Antonio Stradivari, the maker of the famous violins of the name. Inferior violins are often sold as genuine Stradivari because of such forgery.

Band Is Heard By More Than Million

But Over a Fifteen-Year
Period, Shadwell
Says

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—Talking of bands, H. C. Shadwell says he's the director of one which has been listened to by more than a million people in fifteen years. His organization is gaily-uniformed group of lads who attend the Huntington High School, who play at all the high school football games performing intricate figures better than some college groups and who parade through the down-town streets frequently to drum up attendance at the games.

The band," says Shadwell, "has been featured by the Canadian national exposition at Toronto where it played before throngs of thousands of people, it has performed before 213,000 out-of-town people since August, 1938, including an audience of 10,000 in Charleston; 5,000 in Portsmouth, O.; 15,000 in Dayton, O., and 3,000 in Ashland, Ky. During that same period, we have given 130 concerts here which have been heard by many thousands.

"Going back a little further into history, the high school musicians played the Chautauqua circuit for four seasons, during which two performances were made daily in 90 cities and towns. Figuring an audience of 1,000 at each concert, this would give a total audience of 180,000 a season or almost three-quarters of a million people along the Chautauqua circuits."

Radio Repair Shop Becomes 'Hospital' And Business Booms

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 1—Ernest C. Augsten has increased his radio repair business 125 per cent in the past few months by moving from a Main street location to a "hospital" on the city's outskirts.

It's hard to say why, but Hartford apparently likes the idea of treating a radio with a burned out tube like a human with an inflamed appendix.

Augsten's ambulance draws up to the homes with two attendants, garbed as internes, ready to rush the "patient" to the hospital on a stretcher.

Augsten himself says he doesn't know why the idea has caught on.

He now employs seven "doctors" and "nurses" in his gleaming white establishment compared to the three who worked in his old place. And, he says, new customers are coming in at the rate of 1,000 every 30 days with business up 125 per cent.

The strangest of all causes of war was an argument over the sex of a bear. It occurred in Switzerland, and thousands of Swiss soldiers died because St. Gall asserted the figure of a bear on a coat of arms was a male, and Appenzell insisted it was female.

Delegates Leave For State Older Boys' Conference

Club Members Will Meet and Interview Important Personages

Lonaconing, Dec. 1 — Four delegates from the Hi-Y Club of Central high school left today to attend the sixteenth older boys' conference, at Baltimore, on December 2, 3 and 4. Joseph Haugen, sponsor of the club accompanied the group.

The theme of the conference will be "Youth Inspects Democracy." The conference is to be conducted on different lines than former conferences, with the delegates being divided into groups and will go out into the city and inspect democracy as it functions. The groups will have adult leaders and will meet and interview important people.

Saturday the conference will hear an illustrated address on "Youth Takes a Look at Europe," by Arnold Eugene Jenne, a member of the staff of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. This talk will be given at 8:30 p. m. at the annual conference banquet. On Sunday the final day, Dr. Harold Bosley minister of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal church, will preach the conference sermon, at 11 a. m., concluding the sojourn of the delegates.

Those making the trip by motor are: Blair Holmes, William Moyer, Robert Grove and Conrad Hohnig leader, Joseph Haugen.

The same train struck and killed Philip Moore, 35-year-old Mohegan negro, Sunday.

Angry, Not Intoxicated, Accused Sheriff Contends

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—A jury considering the case of Sheriff Moore M. Reynolds, accused of being intoxicated in a public place after a brush with state police October 25, was excused today for the night after deliberating several hours.

The panel will resume its deliberations tomorrow. The case was given to the jury at 1:30 p. m. today after Reynolds's counsel contended in final arguments that what appeared to be intoxication was really only mental agitation.

The sheriff testified yesterday that he was only angry on the night he directed jail trustees to remove furniture from the state police detachment offices in the courthouse.

He denied he was intoxicated or under the influence of liquor but said he became angry when Sergeant C. P. Wilson, detachment commander, charged that Reynolds and his deputies "are always drunk" in speaking of an accident in which two deputies had been hurt the previous night.

Keyser PTA Will Have a Bazaar

Scout Council Plans Annual Dinner for January 19 in Cumberland

Allotment for Parsons School Gets Approval

Public Works Administration Grants $81,180 for Structure

Parsons, W. Va., Dec. 1.—Shirley Cooper, Tucker county superintendent of schools, was advised today by Senator M. M. Neely and Representative Jennings Randolph that the Public Works Administration had approved allotment of $81,180 for the building of a new high school in this city. A special meeting of the board of education will be held tomorrow night to make final plans and select a site. Four sites are under consideration.

The present high school is far too small for the number of pupils enrolled, so it will be used as a graded school building here. The present graded school is an old frame building and condemned years ago as a fire trap.

The new high school here will have twenty-five rooms with an auditorium and gymnasium combined and will be built with local labor. It will be one of the most needed buildings in Tucker county.

Motorists Are Hurt

Harold Lipscomb, 35, of this city, who is employed by the Standard Oil Company at Clarksburg, was slightly bruised today when his truck and a car driven by Roy S. Hamman, 44, of Randolph county, crashed on route 250, near Aggregate, according to a report by state police. The officers said ice on the highway caused the cars to sideswipe. Both men were slightly bruised about the knees and their cars were said to have received minor damages.

Browning Picked For Postmaster Job at Oakland

City Clerk Recommended for Position To Succeed Mrs. Matthews

Oakland, Md., Dec. 1.—J. Frank Browning has been recommended by Representative David J. Lewis for the position of acting postmaster, which will become vacant on January 1, when the resignation of Mrs. Frances H. Matthews takes effect.

Mr. Browning for the past several years has been city clerk for the Mayor and Town Council.

There may be other recommendations made by the Democratic Central committee, but thus far no names have been mentioned.

Marriage Is Announced

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Lena Gladys Speicher to Mr. Marvin Callis, at the home of the bridegroom's brother, Mason Callis, at Mt. Lake Park, Wednesday afternoon, November 23.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. W. A. Speicher, of Accident, is a graduate of Accident High school and for several years has been clerk in the Accident postoffice.

The groom is a graduate of the University of Maryland and for several years has been instructor in vocational agriculture in the Accident High school. The couple will reside in Accident.

City Will Decorate

That Oakland would be gayly lighted for the Christmas season just as in former years, seemed to be a certainty this week, but just how gayly will depend upon the action of the mayor and city council on Monday night.

Merchants are already engaging evergreen trees to be placed along the curbs in front of their establishments as in previous years. There will also be a community tree on the Presbyterian church lawn, as the Scouts planted a tree there this year and presented it to the town for a permanent community tree.

The unknown quantity is the amount of vari-colored bulbs and strands of decorations that will be put across the main streets of the town. Citizens themselves will decorate their homes, just as in past years.

Chest Drive Arranged

The Charities Committee of the Oakland Young Democrats club has made plans to inaugurate the first annual Community Chest fund of Oakland, according to Richard Gonder, president. The drive will begin Saturday.

According to plans, small boys will be placed in all business places in Oakland where customers may make small contributions. The money will be used to buy coal, food and other necessary supplies for the needy.

A committee was also appointed to make final arrangements for the charity ball, to be held during the week following Christmas.

Miss Lee Dies

Miss Eliza Catherine Lee died at the home of her niece in Mt. Lake Park yesterday, November 30, after an illness of some two years. She was a daughter of the late George S. and Julia Ann Lee, and was born in Garrett county. She was 69.

Surviving are one sister and brother, Mrs. Jane A. Moon, Mt. Lake Park; Elisha P. Lee, Swanton, and eighteen nieces and nephews.

Allen A. Bergner Next Navy Leader

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 1 (AP)—Allen A. Bergner—strongest man ever to enter the United States Naval Academy—will captain the Middies football squad for 1939.

The Navy Athletic board announced his selection by teammates of the 1938 eleven.

Bergner, a tackle, and product of Kankakee, Ill., won his strong man title in Academic entrance examinations. His strength on tests exceeded that of any other Midshipman on the Academy rolls.

Hundred Deer Are Bagged First Day In West Virginia

Ten Thousand Hunters Are Expected To Be Out during Season

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—More than a hundred tired hunters happily lugged their deer out of the highlands tonight as thousands of luckless others went back to camp to rest up and try again tomorrow.

First reports from the deer country indicated that the opening day of the 1938 season might set a day's high for the bag total. For the fourth straight year there were no hunting fatalities reported.

Before the season ends Saturday, conservation commission officials have estimated that about 10,000 hunters will have taken advantage of one of the largest deer populations in recent years.

Clarksburg Claims First

Bryan James, of Clarksburg, was one of the claimants for "first" honors. He came out of the woods around Bruceton Mills at 8:45 a. m. with a 172-pound buck.

Another early kill, and one which probably will be counted in the "biggest" pool, was a twelve-point 180-pound buck which was taken in Preston county.

More than 1,200 hunters were in Preston county alone today, the woodsmen reported, and the firing which started just after dawn continued until sunset.

Illegal Kills Probed

Four illegal kills—fawns and does—were under investigation by some of the fifty conservation commission game wardens who were assigned to the open deer territory to aid hunters and to see that the laws are observed.

Henry Cornwell, one of the Preston hunters, said he didn't know exactly what to make of his bag. It was a 175-pound buck which had four points on one side of its head. There were none on the other, and veterans voiced the opinion it apparently had been shot off.

Seven early kills were reported in Tucker county, and the bag was just as heavy in Pocahontas, parts of Webster, and the remaining eight counties where deer are legal game.

"MIRACLE" GIRL

Here is a picture of 13-year-old Alice Bell Kirby, of Jonesville, La., who, according to business men and educators can stay suspended in the air, make pianos hop across the room, and many other uncanny stunts. Thousands of people have trekked to the Kirby farm to watch the girl perform.

"First Lady" Selects Her Wardrobe for Capital Social Season

Evening gown of Persian coral glacier satin which reveals the Molyneux influence in its lovely violet shade. It is one of the dresses Mrs. Roosevelt selects for the coming Washington social season.

For afternoon wear. It is a model with the new zouave waistline and softly fulled bodice and is in Eleanor blue, the color made fashionable by the "first lady" of the U. S. Pearl strands encircle the neck.

Her formal evening gown with lame jacket. It shows the Schiaparelli motif with its leaf buttons. The gown itself is one of the simplest of black crepe creations especially designed for her statuesque bearing.

And here is her dinner gown as she tried it on at the fashion salon of the Arnold Constable and company store in New York. The gown is of rich bagheera velvet of Lanvin red. It has a new square neck with jeweled clips.

Alumni Arranges Christmas Dance

High School Group at Westernport Plans Event for December 26

Westernport, Dec. 1.—The annual Christmas dance of the Bruce high school alumni association will be held Monday night, December 26, from 9 to 1 o'clock, at the school. Allan Miller, president of the association, is general chairman of arrangements. Mrs. Eldred Comp is chairman of the invitation and program committee; Richard Guy, decorations; and Eldred Comp, orchestra.

Christmas Party

Seven new members joined the Piedmont auxiliary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Methodist Episcopal church at its annual Christmas party Wednesday evening. The new members are: Mrs. Joseph Gerstell, Mrs. Raymond Reeves, Mrs. Adam Zais, Miss Edith Michael, Mrs. Dow Albright, Mrs. Otis Newlon and Mrs. Roxy Crawford.

Mrs. Fred R. Barnes presided over the program, which included devotionals, a story of how Phillips Brooks wrote "O Little Town of Bethlehem," by Mrs. Barnes; a Christmas lesson by Miss Marie Clark; a story of two Christmas days spent by John Wesley, by Mrs. H. B. Carroll; "Constant Christmas," by Mrs. Mary Cogan; and music by a quartet comprising Misses Edna Fisher, Bernice Michael, Ruth Michael and Mary L. Brown.

Games were arranged by Mrs. Barnes and refreshments were in charge of Mrs. H. F. Pinnell. Mrs. H. B. Carroll, president of the auxiliary, presided at the business meeting.

Appeal for Orphanage

The annual appeal for donations for the Burlington Orphanage is issued by Mrs. Thomas D. Campbell, chairman of the Burlington Home committee of Piedmont Woman's club.

Mrs. Campbell requests that those who wish to donate leave their contributions at the Piedmont library in the city building by Wednesday of next week. Food, children's clothing or money will be acceptable.

Child Dies

Norman Oliver Maynard, two months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Maynard, Beryl, died this morning at 6 o'clock. Besides his parents, a twin brother survives.

The Normans of early times heated their buildings with wood or peat fires, placed on a hearth in the middle of the room.

William the Conqueror originated the custom of ringing a bell to signal all householders to extinguish their hearth fires.

Second Fatality Occurs In New Mining Town

Koppersburg, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—While children started today to the first school opened in the state's newest mining town, the little village where an apple orchard stood two years ago experienced its second industrial accident.

J. E. Brown, 38, one of the first 80 men who started operations at the Koppers Coal Company's new mine here two weeks ago, was caught beneath a mine car and instantly killed. He was a tippleman.

The operation's first fatal accident occurred on the opening day.

Superintendent of Schools W. C. Bailey, Jr., of Wyoming county, said two houses had been rented from the coal company and that classes would be held there for the remainder of the year.

How 25 Women Lost Ugly FAT In Special N. Y. Clinic

Ask Your Doctor If It Isn't Good Way. Read EVERY Word

NEW YORK, N. Y.—In a test by a prominent N. Y. physician and nationally known newspaper woman—25 women lost a total of 265 lbs. in 46 days. YOU, too, can follow this SAME SENSIBLE plan right at home and here it is:

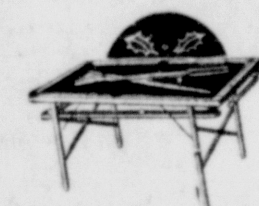

First of all go light on fatty meats and sweets. Eat plentifully of legumes, fish, fowl, fresh fruits and vegetables. And for proper functioning—take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen salts in hot water every morning. DON'T MISS A MORNING! And this is important to know!

Kruschen is NOT harmful. It is not just one salt as some people ignorantly believe. Rather, it's a blend of 6 active mineral salts (formula right on box) which when dissolved in water make a beautiful mineral drink similar to famous European Spa waters where wealthy women have gone for years. A jar of Kruschen costs only a few cents and makes 5 gallons of a most highly efficient mineral drink.

So fat ladies—get some gumption! MAKE UP YOUR MIND YOU'LL STICK to the above plan for 28 days and just see if you don't lose fat and feel healthier and younger. (Note: You can get Kruschen at Cumberland Drug Company and drug-gists everywhere.)—Advertisements.

Don't Let A Couple Of Seals Or Polar Bear Worry You If They Arrive In Christmas Mail

They Simply Represent the New Arctic Motif on Many 1938 Holiday Cards

Arctic motifs, with seals and polar bears playing prominent roles, provide new features for many of the 1938 Christmas cards.

By Central Press
New York, Dec. 2.—If you get a couple of seals or maybe a polar bear in your morning mail along the latter part of December (or at least a picture of one), it is just one of the new and very smart 1938 Christmas cards.

Just by way of something different, Christmas cards this year, instead of coming out as usual with innumerable versions of Santa Claus and his reindeer, remind us of the genial Saint's polar abode by a variety of Arctic motifs, while the traditional snow and ice of the Christmas season are connoted by a whole tribe of intriguing snowmen. For example, a rollicking snowman with a high hat of orange beams from the branches of a bright green Christmas tree silhouetted against a background of bluish purple. Or again, a sartorially splendid snowman sports a high hat, banding with a bit of bright silver, and holds a broom with a silver handle.

New Renderings

Of course, the ever popular Christmas motifs of candles and bells, poinsettia and holly still appear, but in renderings that are decidedly new. A poinsettia blossom in white, for example, with silver leaves is silhouetted against a panel of bright red framed with feathery white goya against a background of solid blue, thus achieving the rich white and blue color scheme which is one of the season's smartest innovations. A Christmas candle is done in white and silver and off-set by holly leaves of white outlined in silver, black-berried against red. The Christmas bell is tied with a lavishly dotted ribbon of red and white as it peels out "A Joyous Christmas" written in white, script against a background of blue. As for the Christmas carollers—who dance a hornpipe as they sing this year they're apt to be three Basque sailors in striped jerseys, who dance a hornpipe as they sing a "Merrie, Merrie Christmas," or even a xylophone player. Many cards are aptly designated to suit the tastes of the hobbies supplying the motif. Just for example, if you have a friend who likes skiing, he'd probably appreciate one of the smart new skiing cards as, for example, one on which a smartly clad skier dashes down a white and purple hill on skis of black.

For those who prefer more formal cards, there are exquisite etchings and mezzotints and colored reproductions of famous paintings. Motifs of religious inspiration—the Christmas angels—appear in markedly greater number and variety, with silhouette treatments in soft blues and silver and white especially favored. This effective use of white silhouette against soft blue, for example, is particularly smart this year and is known as the "Wedgewood" treatment.

On the other hand, the exaggerated comic cards and the pert wisecracking variety have practically disappeared. Even on the informal and amusing cards, sentiments are worded with a simple sincerity. Typical, for instance, is a card which brings "Merry Christmas to My Extra-Special Sweetheart" showing a youth in up-to-date garb which turns page by page to read, with appropriate contemporary illustrations:

Like a tutti-frutti sundae.
Like a multi-millionaire;
Like a double-feature movie,
Like a car with class to spare,
Like a twenty-carat diamond,
Just as brilliant as can be,
You're very "EXTRA-SPECIAL"
In the way you rate with me!
And I wish you an EXTRA-SPECIAL Merry Christmas!

Japanese Beetle Spreads In W. Va. Reaches New Areas In and Around Various Cities

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—The invasion of West Virginia by the Japanese beetle spread to a larger area this year, but the department of agriculture knew it all the time.

The beetle continued to increase in established colonies and spread into new areas, said Commissioner J. B. McLaughlin, adding that such a development was not unexpected.

One of the new outbreaks was some distance from known infested areas, however.

Ten of the bugs were caught in Charleston the past summer within a small area, while only one was caught in 1936 and a single beetle in 1937.

Martinsburg, just outside the quarantined area, found a few more beetles in the bottles than there were in Charleston. Fourteen were caught there but McLaughlin said they probably were just "tramps."

Three were caught in Charles Town, Jefferson county, but none were found in traps set out at New Martinsville, Paden City, Sistersville, Williamstown, St. Mary's, Huntington, Shepherdstown, Kearneysville, Inwood, Bunker Hill, Ranson and Berkeley Springs.

Previous to this year, the beetle was known to be established in Chester, Hollidays Cove, Wheeling, Parkersburg, Princeton, Keyser, Ridgeley and Harpers Ferry.

They were found also at several points in Marion, Harrison and Taylor counties.

The heaviest infestation in the state, said McLaughlin, was at Grafton and the next heaviest in the vicinity of Hedgesville, Berkeley county.

Four hundred years before the Christian era toothpicks were used to clean the teeth. The sticks were made of fresh twigs from trees.

Ohio River Boat Builder Is Proud

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—Launching of the river towboat "Pete" a few days hence will be a proud and happy time for Pete Golden, veteran employee of the Ohio River Dredging Co.

Golden is the sole owner, designer and builder of the staunch little craft, designed for regular commercial use in Ohio river traffic. Work on the boat was started late in 1936, Golden said. He was aided only by his son, Dennis, in the intervals when the son was home between trips on the river.

As soon as the stern wheel is installed, a matter of only a few days, the new boat will be complete. It has an overall length of 92 feet and a draught of only 26 inches. The hull is of steel, welded by Golden.

Despite its small proportions the craft will deliver 200 horsepower with Diesel engine. In the cabin are staterooms, a kitchen and an open space where a crew of seven can sit around a coal stove and spin river yarns.

Golden said three firms had already inquired about hiring the boat for towing work.

Asked about the name Golden said: "I had decided to name her Ellen after my little granddaughter and I told Dennis to paint the name boards, but when he brought 'em back, he'd put the name 'Pete' on them, so I guess it's named for me. It won't be many days now until "Pete" will be shoving barges up and down the river and "blowing" its whistle with the best of 'em," the owner, designer and builder said.

Would Beautify Banks Of The Beautiful Ohio

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—The chamber of commerce is going to follow the example of other cities along the Ohio river and seek funds for a river bank beautification project.

If the proposal goes through, a number of river bank structures will be cleared off, and rose bushes and hardy shrubs set out on the land between the flood walls and the river.

Varnishing-Cleaning Hint

To remove spots from varnished floors, rub quickly with a cloth dipped in warm water and mild soap suds, wipe thoroughly and repolish at once. Water removes finish from varnished floors, so use it only as suggested.

Fireman Keeps Busy By Painting Murals

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—For the fireman who qualified, time on his hands means only a chance to paint.

And Archie Miller of Charleston's Central fire station qualified.

His most recent sparetime job is a mural panel memorializing members of the fire department who have been killed in action.

Hartnett Will Manage Cubs In 1939

Star Chicago Player Signs For $27,500

Next Year Will Be Gaby's 18th Season With Cubs

GETS CHRISTMAS PRESENT EARLY

Led Club To League Title After Succeeding Charley Grimm

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
Chicago, Dec. 1 (AP)—Gaby Hartnett, of the Chicago Cubs, who lost his given name of Charles Leo to baseball years ago, today received a Christmas present, 24 days early.

Dropping into the office of Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the team, for a chat about possible trades, Hartnett was offered a contract to manage the club for 1939 and speedily affixed his signature. He will receive about $27,500, an increase of $5,000 over last year, although owner Wrigley refused to disclose the exact figures.

"You might as well sign while you are here," owner Wrigley said. "People will soon be asking questions if you don't."

Hartnett signed a one-year contract as a playing manager. He intends to resume his job catching next season, his eighteenth year with the club.

Hartnett, a smiling six-foot Irishman, with greying hair and a tomato-red face, led the Cubs to a National League championship after succeeding Charley Grimm, who was deposed July 18. Trailing the Giants, Cincinnati and the league leading Pirates, the big genial Irishman inspired his players to win the pennant, which they clinched October 1 in a dramatic finish just a day before the windup of the season.

Hartnett, puffing on a big black cigar, was smiling happily when he emerged from his conference with owner Wrigley.

"Everything is okay by me," Hartnett beamed, indicating that he was satisfied with his increase.

The record book says that Hartnett will be 38 on December 20. He came to the Cubs as a gangling rookie in 1921. He is tremendously popular with his players.

Frosh Gridders At Pitt Ready For 'Showdown'

New List of Demands for Assistance Are Presented

John Weber, Business Manager May Have Answer Monday

Pittsburgh, Dec. 1 (AP)—Pitt's Freshmen football players, who have scored once in their contest with the University's front office, kicked off again today by laying down a new list of demands for assistance.

Demanding a "showdown" on their status, which revived a controversy over the University's "strictly amateur" policy, they bucked the line to the office of John Weber, University Business Manager.

Weber emerged from a huddle to announce he would probably have a definite answer Monday to the Freshmen's statement which included:

"1. We were told (by a University representative) that we were to work only 15 to 20 minutes per day.

"2. Notes (for tuition) given us at registration were supposed to be a matter of 'formality' when we signed them.

"3. Athletic eligibility applications were also said to be a matter of 'formality'."

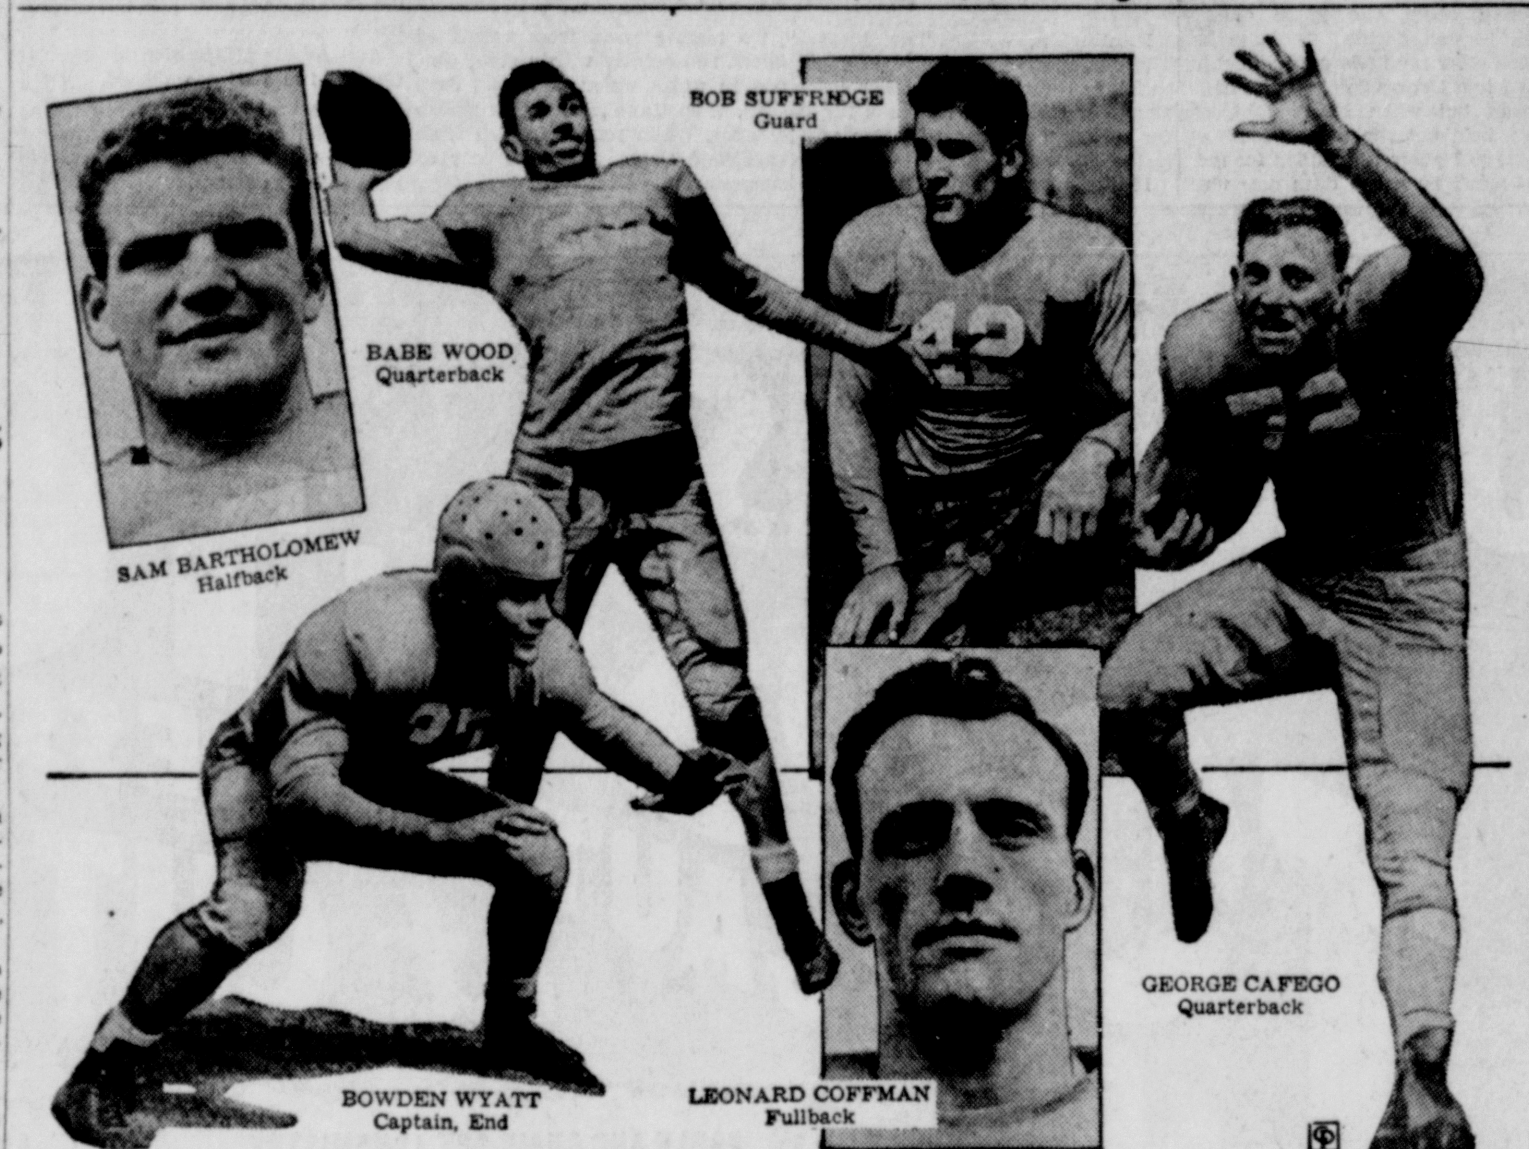

"4. Whenever we were given the notes, the eligibility cards or anything else we were not given enough time to read them and be able to understand them.

"5. We sincerely believe that we should be interviewed (regarding the points stressed) only as a group, and not individually, as proposed by the Administration Officials."

A spokesman for the University's Athletic Department said a "group within a group" of the gridders was responsible for the statement and that it was "not a 100 percent" action.

The athletes are currently paid $48 a month for their work, which consists mainly of cleaning windows and sweeping floors in Pitt's Sky-scraper Cathedral of Learning.

Tennessee Looks Toward Last Game, Dec. 3, and Orange Bowl

With only one more game to play, University of Tennessee's powerful Vols, will have one eye at least on the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla. The last game of the season is scheduled for Dec. 3 against University of Mississippi at Memphis. Tennessee has won nine straight games, defeating Sewanee, Clemson, Auburn, Alabama, The Citadel, Louisiana State, Chattanooga, Vanderbilt and Kentucky. One of the Vols has been chosen an All-American team, Quarterback, George Cafego, of Oak Hill, Va., a triple threat back. Cafego and other stars of the Vols are pictured. Victory over Mississippi will give Tennessee a clean record when the Vols meet the Oklahoma Sooners in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Jan. 2.

Big Red Eleven Is Voted as Best In West Virginia

Parkersburg Finished It's Schedule Without Losing a Game

"Red Riders" of Weirton Are Ranked Second; East Bank Is Third

BY WALTER MASON

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—Parkersburg's unbeaten and untied Big Red got the 1938 laurel wreath for football so far as 19 West Virginia sports editors are concerned.

Nothing if not consistent, the writers placed Parkersburg in the top slot for the third consecutive week in the final football poll of the season conducted by the Charleston Gazette.

Weirton, also unbeaten and untied, again was ranked second. Apparently the schedule limitations of the Red Riders, who played principally out-of-state teams this year, figured largely in the second place award.

Little East Bank, undefeated but tied, got third place again in the final voting after chalking up a 2-0 victory over Charleston. The Williamson Wolfpack, undefeated and tied only by East Bank, jumped from seventh to fourth place after a 7-0 triumph over Logan.

Morgantown gained a notch to finish out the season in fifth place on the basis of a record sullied only by a defeat from Charleston in the final game.

The Iron Men of Hinton, last year's official champions drew sixth position as against ninth last week. Hinton turned back Beckley in the season finale.

Two newcomers popped up in this week's ranking. Just behind seventh-place Charleston was Triadelphia of Wheeling in eighth position and Wellsburg in ninth. Apparently Triadelphia's 7-0 triumph over unbeaten and untied Warwood was responsible for its entry. The Triadelphians were beaten only by Parkersburg.

Warwood dropped back to a tenth place tie with Beckley. Others receiving votes were Moundsville, Huntington, Keyser, St. Albans, Burnsville, Washington Irving of Clarksburg, Elkins and Victory of Clarksburg.

Reinhart Cleans Slate

George Washington University declared a "new deal" in football this year, with a new head coach and virtually a new team. William J. (Bill) Reinhart, backfield coach at G. W. since 1935 succeeds Doc Pixlee as head mentor. He had only twelve lettersman from the 1937 team.

"Ox" Aronholt Named Captain by Fort Hill Gridders

Grover "Ox" Aronholt, half-back on the Fort Hill high school football eleven will captain the Sentinels next year. He was elected by his teammates to succeed Richard Barley, guard, and Jack McCrory, end, who were co-captains during the season which closed with the Allegheny game Tuesday night.

Aronholt, a junior in school this year, is five feet, nine inches high and weighs 160 pounds. He has been on the Fort Hill football squad for the last three years. Coach Johnny Long of the Sentinels said Aronholt would be at the left half-back position in the 1939 season.

The SPORT TRAIL

By Paul Mickelson

New York, Dec. 1 (AP)—Seen and heard in the big sports huddles: Despite all the chatter, it's less than even money that the college football rules will be unchanged for 1939. The coaches who have been yelling the loudest for the elimination of the extra point will be silent, little men when the rules discussions open. Latest of the remedial suggestions has been made by Tuss McLaughry of Brown who favors forcing the touchdown scorer to make the effort for the 7th point. But money talks even in college football. The customers proved they liked the game as this fall.

Sorry For Cotton Bowl
Everyone hereabouts feels sorry for the Cotton Bowl people who got less for their great plans than a defeated politician. A large delegation of New York sports writers plan to report the Sugar Bowl classic between Carnegie Tech and Texas Christian.

The New York Giants now aren't so sure their star second baseman, Burgess Whitehead, will come back next season. They're hot after a key player and want Pep Young of the Pittsburghs. . . . Stories speculating on the trade or sale of Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees are dry hokum. Colonel Jake Ruppert would almost sooner part with his brewery than Giuseppe. . . . The Yankees, however, may do some important business with the Cleveland.

Evansville Came Back
Bill Stryker, whose Evansville, Ind., college football team came back this year after being held scoreless in every 1937 game, will tell how it was done in a radio broadcast for "We The People" next Tuesday night.

Henry Armstrong and his manager, Pat Eddie Mead, threaten to break with promoter Mike Jacobs because Mike is too insistent on a return match between the negro double champ and Lou Ambers for the lightweight title. . . . Even when he wins, Tony Canzoneiro proves to the boys he should have forgotten his ring comeback. He's a tragic case.

The wrestling maestros are feuding hot and heavy again. Most are very angry at Jake (Hassen) Pfeister, the mat swami of Times Square who admitted in a magazine story that wrestling wasn't as upright as the tower of Pisa. "I'm just a confessed faker," screams Jake.

A golfer who was none to sure of his control, but had the foresight to be prepared for emergencies, was sought by police for the theft of a bushel and a half of golf balls from George Matson's driving tee in Wichita, Kan. The golfer apparently didn't need any clubs, because several new sets near the golf balls were not touched.

Oklahoma Will Be Given Rest For Bowl Game

Team Has Played Hard Schedule and Still Has One Game

SOONERS HAVE WON THIRTEEN STRAIGHT

Stidham To Take Squad of 33 To Orange Bowl at Miami

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Norman, Okla., Dec. 1 (AP)—The University of Oklahoma Sooners have been too good for all their grid foes this year, but they aren't going to be too "fine" when they catch Tennessee in Miami's Orange Bowl, Jan. 2.

Knowing that would be too bad, Coach Tom Stidham has ordered his boys to forget about football for two weeks after the Washington State game here Saturday to keep them from going stale.

Win, lose or draw, the squad will be dismissed after the intercollegiate clash with the Pacific Coast team and will not report for practice again until Dec. 17.

"We played a long, hard schedule and the boys need a rest," said Stidham.

The unbeaten, untied Sooners will have earned a rest. On nine successive Saturdays they have banged into tough opposition.

Their victory string, counting the four they won at the end of the 1937 season, now numbers 13 in a row. And they rank fifth in the nation.

Stidham said he expected to take a squad of three complete teams and his place-kicking specialist, Raphael Boudreau, to the Orange Bowl, arriving in Miami several days before the game.

While Stidham is bending every effort to get his players to keep their minds on the Washington State game, the whole campus is becoming Orange Bowl conscious. A poll of campus fraternities disclosed at least 200 students are planning to make the 3,200 mile trip to Miami and back.

William and Mary Again Opening For Navy's '39 Card

While Naval Academy athletic heads are awaiting approval of the Sailors' 1939 football schedule the card is coming out game by game from other colleges booked to meet the Middle.

Latest to announce its card is William and Mary, which has Navy listed for September 30 at Annapolis. This will be the opening game, as has been the case with the Tars for several years.

Seven of Navy's games for '39 are now known. This leaves three dates yet to be announced—October 7, 28 and November 18.

The Tars' card to date: September 30—William and Mary, Annapolis. October 14—Dartmouth, Stadium. October 21—Notre Dame, Columbia, Annapolis. November 11—Princeton, Princeton. December 2—Army, Philadelphia.

With the 1938 season over Navy's assistant coaches from the service are leaving Annapolis for duty at various naval bases.

St. Mary's Gaels To Play In Cotton Bowl

California Boys Will Play Texas Tech at Dallas

Accept Invitation for Game With Unbeaten, United Team

TEAM IS COACHED BY SLIP MADIGAN

Gaels Attracted Attention By Stopping Santa Clara 12-7

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 1 (AP)—Twice beaten but dangerous St. Mary's of California—The Gaels—today accepted an invitation to meet undefeated, United Texas Tech in the Cotton Bowl post-season game in January 2.

Dan Rogers, Chairman of the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association, said Coach Slip Madigan, of St. Mary's had telephoned approval of the game, conferring with athletic officials of the coast school.

Selection of St. Mary's ended a three-day combing of the nation's outstanding major clubs available for a post-season engagement. Reports said four teams were under consideration after considerable shuffling of countless telegrams and telephone calls.

Both teams employ wide-open offenses and Cotton Bowl officials expressed satisfaction at the lineup.

The Gaels, one of the major independent clubs of the nation, snapped Santa Clara's two-year winning streak in its last engagement, bringing in a 7-0 victory that blasted the Broncos out of Bowl consideration.

California, runner-up for the Pacific Coast Conference honors and out voted for the Rose Bowl edged past St. Mary's 12-7, in the Gaels' opening game of the season. In its next to last appearance, the Gaels went east and dropped a 3-0 decision to Fordham.

Victims of the St. Mary's list include Gonzaga, Loyola of Los Angeles, Portland University, University of San Francisco, and Santa Clara.

The Tech Red Raiders played teams from nine states and licked them all—including Montana, Montana State, Gonzaga, Duquesne, Loyola of New Orleans, Marquette, New Mexico, Texas School of Mines and Oklahoma City.

George Town Authorities Give Three Reasons for Their Action

First Time in 64 Years Hoyas Unbeaten and Untied

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—The Capital's football fans can't understand the Georgetown Hoyas—for 64 years the school has struggled for an unbeaten, untied season and now that it has one it doesn't want a bowl bid.

H. Gabriel Murphy, Graduate Manager of Athletics, said the institution has declined three overtures—from the Sun Bowl at El Paso, from California's Prune Bowl, and a contemplated eastern game to be called the Champagne Bowl.

Feelers have been received from Dallas, Texas, where officials are seeking to schedule opponents for the Annual Cotton Bowl contest.

"Even if we officially received this bid," Murphy explained, "I believe we'd have to turn it down as much as we appreciate the compliment of an invitation."

Georgetown has three reasons for not accepting a post season game:

- 1—A knee injury to a star backfield man, Joe Melendick.
- 2—The cost involved.
- 3—Too much emphasis on football.

Authorities, however, are divided on the last point.

Hoping for even a better season in 1939 than this year, The Hoyas want to take no chances with their big ground gainer who was injured in the closing contest of 1938. And playing a Bowl game without Melendick would greatly dim Georgetown's chances.

The players, of course, want a bowl game.

"That's only natural," said Murphy, "but I think the prospect of a long trip figures in their planning. The farther away the Bowl the greater the interest, I'm afraid."

Sub Scores

Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP)—To John Butcher, substitute Penn quarterback, went the honor of becoming the first player in six games to score against 1938 Michigan on a scrimmage play. Passes had accounted for five other touchdowns by opponents.

6,000 Race Fans At Charles Town On Opening Day

Royal Business Wins Six and Half Furlong Feature

Daily Double Paid $403.80; Jockey Vaille Is Disqualified

Charles Town, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)—The Charles Town Jockey club inaugurated its 15-day meeting today before approximately 6,000 fans, with Captain Ewart Johnston's Royal Business landing the six and a half furlong feature.

The winner paid $12.40, while Last Chase paid $9.20 in place position and Mondot paid $3.00 to show.

Weather conditions were ideal, but the track was still muddy from recent snows. Jockey Leon Garrett escaped injury in the feature event when his mount, Mrs. Helen Horst's Kai-Min, dashed through the fence and into the center field while entering the home stretch.

In the sixth race, Jockey F. Vaille brought Tommy Rose to the wire first, but Judges disqualified the winner and Vaille was suspended for rough riding. Bargain Boy, a $26.60 shot, was declared winner, with Strophe, paying $7.80, second and Happy Road paying $2.60, third.

The daily double combination of J. E. Crider's Dixie 5 and Lingerie, owned by Mrs. H. R. Benson, victors in the second and third races, respectively, paid $403.80.

Two Freak Records For Football Book

Premont, eb. (AP)—Strange indeed are the things that happen on the football field.

Witness the record of Mike Brock, of Columbus, Neb., and Axel Bundgaard, of Brush, Colo., who completed their football careers at Midland college here this year.

Brock, quarterback for four years (Midland permits freshmen to play), carried the ball twice during his entire playing time. He gained a yard and scored a touchdown each carry. Both scores were made when he was a freshman.

Bundgaard, an end, carried the ball three times on end-around plays during his four years of play. He scored a touchdown each time.

OLSON'S "RED HEADS" PLAY HERE SUNDAY

Reading from left to right the players are—Hazel Vickers, Hazel Smith, Peggy Lawson, Lila Blue, Kay Kirkpatrick, Ruth Osburn and Gladys Lommler. All the girls with the exception of Miss Vickers and Miss Smith are six feet tall and those two are 5'9 and 5'8 respectively.

A banner crowd is expected to see the game, as the girls not only play real basketball but put on a good show as well. Interest in the Collegians has increased by leaps and bounds since their fine showing against the New York Celtics last Sunday.

AAU Will Hold Convention in Washington, D. C.

Fifteenth Annual Meeting Will Get Under Way This Morning

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP)—Headed by its President, Judge Samuel E. Hoyt of New Haven, Conn., the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States will begin its Fifteenth Annual convention at the Hotel Willard tomorrow morning. The meeting, which will run through Sunday, has drawn some 400 delegates from 39 sectional associations, including Hawaii.

Tomorrow's session will be given over to 33 committee meetings, with 21 sports committees selecting sites for their 1939 championships. The committee reports then will be submitted to the general convention on Saturday and Sunday.

The record committee will be one of the busiest, for it will pass on applications for 95 National Senior and Junior, championship and citizen records as well as some 60 noteworthy performances. Outstanding in this large collection is the 4:04.4 clocking for the mile turned in by Glenn Cunningham on March 3 in the Dartmouth college gymnasium at Hanover, N. H.

Though Cunningham's time is the fastest ever recorded for the distance—two seconds better than Sydney Wooderson's world record—it will not supplant the latter mark, since the International Amateur Athletic Federation, which passes on all world records, does not recognize indoor performances. Cunningham's time will stand as the American Indoor mark.

Major 1939 championships for which sites are to be named are men's track and field, outdoors and indoors; men's and women's swimming, and boxing. Fresno (Calif.) State College, Lincoln, Neb., and Milwaukee have made bids for outdoor track and field, San Francisco and Boston for boxing, and Detroit, Los Angeles, New York, Indianapolis and Chicago for Swimming.

"Babe" Horrell Is New UCLA Football Coach

Los Angeles, Dec. 1 (AP)—Edwin C. (Babe) Horrell, former University of California center star and since 1930 assistant football coach at University of California at Los Angeles, late today was named head coach at U. C. L. A. to succeed William H. Spaulding.

Ray Richards, line coach the past year under Spaulding and ex-Nebraska star, was retained on the staff, and James (Jim) Blewett, coach of the championship Manual Arts high school here and prominent Pacific Coast Conference grid official, was named to round out the staff.

All three were signed to two-year contracts, but salary terms were not disclosed.

Spaulding, who led the UCLANS out of the football wilderness after coming here in 1925, resigned the head coaching job last spring to become athletic director at the institution.

Nine Grid Tilts For Army Eleven

West Point, N. Y., Dec. 1—The 1939 Army football team will play nine games, according to the schedule announced today by Lieut. Col. Louis E. Hibbs, graduate manager of athletics.

The only new team on the card is Centre College, although it has been some time since the Soldiers faced three other foes. The season, as usual, closes with Navy in the big Municipal Stadium in Philadelphia.

The schedule: September 30—Furman at West Point, October 7—Centre at West Point, October 14—Columbia at New York, October 21—Yale at West Haven, October 28—Ursinus at West Point, November 4—Notre Dame at New York, November 11—Harvard at Cambridge, November 18—Penn State at West Point, December 2—Navy at Philadelphia.

THE Sportlight BY GRANTLAND RICE

Somewhere in Arkansas, Dec. 2—Carnegie Tech and T. C. U. go to the Sugar Bowl and Tennessee and Oklahoma to the Orange Bowl. This, plus the pairing of Southern California and Duke in the Rose Bowl, guarantees a swell brand of football from one end of the sun belt to the other on January 2.

These may not be the six strongest teams in the country but they are six of the eight or ten strongest. Notre Dame, generally recognized now as the nation's number one array, may knock off the Rose Bowl show, but if the Trojans should topple the Irish it would add to the attractiveness of the spectacle at Pasadena.

Carnegie Tech lost to Notre Dame but only by one touchdown and undoubtedly was affected to some extent by the unfortunate confusion over the number of downs at a critical moment in the game. It beat Pitt and Holy Cross among others. Now it goes South to meet the finest team from the Southwest.

T. C. U. will take into the clash with Carnegie more than the brilliant passing of Davy O'Brien. This has been the standout feature of T. C. U.'s play, of course. But the Christians have a fine running game, too—directed by a little guy named O'Brien who not only is the country's leading passer but a first-class quarterback.

Tennessee, with a smashing attack and a stout defense, is ranked by many critics in that section as the best in the South, including Duke. The Vols have three fine running backs in Cafego, Coffman and Wood, a great end in Wyatt and a strong line sparked by Suftridge, the left guard.

Not much is known of Oklahoma in the East but it swept through a nine-game schedule unbeaten and with only twelve points being scored against it, beating Rice, Texas, Kansas, Nebraska, Tulsa, Kansas State, Missouri, Iowa State and Oklahoma A and M. If you point out that there are no Pitts, Minnesotas, Fordhams or Notre Dames in that group I'll agree with you—but I'll add that there are no push-overs in it, either.

You Can't Block It Out

It makes no difference into what secluded or into hat hidden spots of this country you may wander, there is one theme you can't duck or elude. This is football. It reaches everywhere. As you sit down on a log at noonday to absorb a sandwich while in pursuit of quail in the deep-tangled wildwood of Arkansas all those around want to know about this team and that.

"How about that Notre Dame-Southern California game?" Bill Dickey asks.

You start to tell him and the others and you suddenly remember what Dartmouth was going to do to Stanford—and didn't. You know the two lines are evenly matched, with Southern California carrying more line reserves. Notre Dame has more and better backs, although no back any more dangerous than Lansell of U. S. C.

Notre Dame has a faster running attack, but the Trojan troop has an edge in passing. And a good passer can cover up a multitude of other faults.

You can give Notre Dame the slight edge—but no more. The scoring should be light. It should be one of the big battles of football's greatest year. Southern California has come a long way from her Alabama start and an unbeaten team, such as Notre Dame is to date, is always under an added strain in its last start.

Tennessee And Ole Miss

As Memphis is just across the line, they all want to know about the coming argument between Bob Neyland and Harry Mehre—Tennessee and Mississippi.

On form Tennessee looks to have too much experience. Ole Miss has quite a bunch of sophomores who can always get hot at certain moments, but who have many things to learn.

There has been quite an argument in the South as to which is the better back—Parker Hall of Mississippi or George Oafego of Tennessee. This game in Memphis tomorrow may help settle it. But Tennessee also has Wyatt, a brilliant end, Wood and Suftridge.

Looking Back

As you sit there wondering how you missed those last five birds, flying brown dots against a shivery landscape, your mind drifts back to Notre Dame's—and Knute Rockne's—last unbeaten team—back in 1930.

That was Rockne's last charge. That 1930 backfield was the best I ever saw in action—Joe Savoldi, Marty Brill, Markey Schwartz, Frank Carideo, Moon Mullins, Bucky O'Connor. They scored 35 points against a good Pitt team in less than two periods. They scored 62 points against Pennsylvania in less than twenty-five minutes. With Savoldi missing and Mullins hurt they ran up 27 points against one of the best teams Southern California ever had.

Just a week ago I was talking with Marty Brill, probably football's greatest blocker, about this 1930 outfit. It might be recalled that Brill was also a great ball carrier, but he liked blocking best of all. When a blocker can handle two such men as Karois of Carnegie Tech and Ernie Pinckert of U. S. C., he must have something extra.

"Yes, that was quite a backfield," Brill said. "Even if you didn't block, they still kept moving."

Rockne had Brill and Carideo for his blockers. Not bad. Savoldi, Schwartz, Mullins and O'Connor for his ball carriers. Also not so bad. And not such a bad line. And about as fine spirit as any team ever had.

I've seen the 1938 Notre Dame model play twice. It has more good backs, but not quite the 1930 quality. Imagine an attack scoring 62 points against Pittsburgh and Southern California.

What would Rock do today? You don't have to worry about what Rock would have done. He was still doing all right when he said goodbye. But he didn't leave them laughing. He left deep grief, mixed with outstanding memories. Even after eight years those who knock around football places know how much he is missed.

Paw Paw Floor Team Will Play Eighteen Games

Regular Season Will Open December 7 at Westernport

Paw Paw, W. Va., Dec. 1—Coach Arnett Swisher who is starting his first season as basketball coach at the local high school has announced the team will play an 18 game schedule. An Alumni team was to be played tonight while the regular season will open December 7 when Paw Paw goes to Westernport to play Bruce High School.

Coach Swisher, who tutored teams in the Elk Garden (W. Va.) section before being appointed to the local position, reports prospects bright with several holdovers, including last year's high scorer, Belmont Rockwell, on the present squad. Rockwell has won letters the past three years.

Other veterans are John Roby and Zellwood Hinds, who won letters the past two seasons; James Rouzee, who captured a "P" in last campaign and Otis Clark, who played in 1936-37 but who was out last year with an injury.

The ten newcomers are headed by Raymond Robertson, John Sherwood, Nelson Ambrose and Paul Bohr. Others are Francis Bohr, Paul Leach, Johnny Clark, William McCoolie, Elridge Fraley and Jack Arnica.

Eighteen games have been arranged for the local quint, including home-and-home clashes with Bruce of Westernport, Wardensville, LaSalle, Berkeley Springs, Ridgeley, Romney and Beal. Battles with Piedmont and Hancock are being arranged.

Last year, Paw Paw won 15 games, lost seven and tied one but lost the Morgan county championship when it bowed to Berkeley Springs 22-20 after defeating the

Zuppke Still Coach

Old football master Robert Zuppke still remains head coach at the University of Illinois, a position he has held for 26 years. Zuppke had submitted his resignation to the university board of trustees at the demand of the school's board of athletics. But the trustees reversed the action of the athletic board and Zuppke retains his job. Zuppke is 59.

Navy Will Not Hire Civilian Football Coach

Graduate Coaching System Will Be Continued Again in 1939

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 1 (AP)—Navy officials today called "round today to deny formally (A) that a civilian would coach the Naval Academy's 1939 football team and (B) that Lieut. Harry (Hank) Hardwick, the Middies' present coach, had resigned.

Hardwick himself entered the flurry of rumor and counter-rumor with what he said was his only "official" statement:

"In answer to the questions put to me," he said, "I would only like to say that I am primarily a naval officer. As Navy football coach, I have endeavored to instill officer-like qualities in the Midshipmen placed under my care.

"I have not received any orders and cannot say where I am going, if I go."

Meanwhile, Capt. E. W. McKee, Director of Athletics, denied requested reports Hardwick had asked to be assigned to sea duty after the 1938 season. He added: "I have never been informed that Lieut. Hardwick would not return in 1939."

In any event, he said, no decision on the 1939 coaching setup would be reached until the Athletic Council meets next week—and may be not even then.

Another high-ranking officer, who requested his name not be used, declared flatly that Navy's graduate coaching system would be continued through the next season. He asserted "Big Name" coaches would not fit in at the Academy.

Hunters Swarm Through County; Kill 12 Deer

Garrett County Gunner Hurt When Deer Kicks Knife

ONLY THREE ARRESTS, GAME WARDENS SAY

Petersburg Man Injured When Gun Blows Up In His Face

The deer season opened yesterday in three Western Maryland counties with a literal "bang," while in most of the state hunters' guns were silent.

Maryland law prohibits hunting while the ground is covered with snow except in Allegany, Washington and Garrett counties.

A dozen deer were bagged in Allegany county, it was reported by Deputy Game Warden Joseph A. Minke and Harry Kenney, who said several hundred nimrods were seeking game throughout the day.

No casualties had been reported in the county at a late hour last night.

And in contrast to former years, only three arrests were reported. Deputy Game Warden Kenney reported three hunters nabbed for failure to have a license.

While no arrests had been reported in Garrett county, one casualty was recorded when the last convulsive kick of a deer a hunter was cleaning plunged a knife deep into his thumb. Many hunters were said to be in the woods.

Washington county reported no arrests, no accidents.

158 Deer Fall In W. Va.

Meanwhile, the Associated Press reported that at least 158 deer fell before the guns of hunters in the West Virginia highlands, while a 150th animal drowned was recovered. For the fourth consecutive year, no fatalities were reported.

One West Virginian was in Memorial hospital here with injuries about the eyes, the result of the explosion of his gun.

Loren Holt, 37, a Cabin, W. Va., storekeeper was the victim. The accident occurred about 5 p. m. while he was hunting with friends near Petersburg, W. Va.

Hospital attendants reported his condition as satisfactory.

Two Cumberlanders shared the honor of killing the first deer in Allegany county.

Largest Buck Weighed 250 Both the Rev. Edgar S. Price, pastor of Second Street Baptist church, and Ernest Haberle, of 410 Louisiana avenue, reported deer slain at 7:30 a. m.

Both deer were shot in the Town Hill section.

To the Rev. Price, who lives at 6 Arch street, went the honor of bagging the largest animal.

He reported his kill to have been a nine-point buck weighing 250 pounds. He was hunting alone.

Mr. Haberle's buck, an eight-pointer, weighed about 175 pounds. With Mr. Haberle was Sie Zollner.

County Officials Lucky Officials of the Justice-of-the-Peace court were among the lucky hunters.

William H. Bantz, clerk, brought down an eight-point buck, weighing 175 pounds, with a 30-30.

Accompanying him were Magistrate Paul M. Fletcher and Constable Roy Buey.

Bantz' first shot hit the deer in the leg, it was learned, and the three-legged animal led the party a merry two-or-three mile chase before Bantz killed it with another shot.

Other Hunters Other successful county hunters included: John Ritchie, Lonaconing, six-pointer, near Meadows; Carl Jewell, Cumberland, four-pointer; Frank Snider, of 230 Glen street, 175-pound six-pointer; Will's mountain; Paul H. Nyeum, Valley road, 190-pound eight pointer, Green Ridge; Cortez Zembower, Bedford road, ten pointer, Pea Vine run section; Joseph Sliber, Oldtown, eight-pointer, Town Hill; William H. Opel, Frostburg, eight-pointer, Piney mountain; and Marshall Winters, Barton, eight-pointer, Backbone mountain.

There was not sufficient snow for much tracking in this area except on the north side of the mountains, it was reported.

Hunting parties consisted mostly of two or three, seldom over five. The largest party reported was one of 22.

Whether any of this group were fortunate was not learned.

Three Arrested The three men arrested for hunting without a license were said by Mr. Kenney to be Grant Zollinger, 506 Baltimore avenue; Donald Price, Little Orleans, and Roland Bohrer, Cumberland.

They are scheduled to be given a hearing in Justice-of-the-Peace court here Wednesday.

Many non-residents were reported hunting in this area today, particularly nimrods from adjoining counties where the sport was banned on account of the snow.

One deer was reported killed by Mr. Minke, but no arrests have been made yet.

Whitney Reese, of near College Park was the Garrett county casualty. He brought down an 8-point buck near Swallow Falls. Hurriedly preparing to clean his prize he set to work with a large hunting knife. The deer gave a last convulsive kick with his hind leg, sending the knife deep into Reese's thumb. He went to Oakland for much-needed medical attention.

Each Dollar Recorded Each dollar contributed will be recorded by pasting of a red paper "brick" on a replica of the Citadel front, to be placed Monday in a downtown store window, Brigadier B. L. Phillipson said.

The replica will be about six feet wide and seven feet high and will have spaces for 12,000 of the symbolic bricks.

Army officials hope to have all 12,000 bricks in place by Christmas. They're asking contributions of $1 or more as a Christmas gift.

Drive Launched The drive for the funds got underway yesterday with the mailing of the first batch of 10,000 letters to individuals and organizations in the Cumberland area.

Robert W. Young, chairman of the mortgage reduction committee, explained that the $12,000 mortgage is the balance on a $20,000 mortgage given on the property in 1921 to provide for construction of the Citadel.

Citizens of the community had previously given several thousand dollars toward the initial cost. Interest on this sum amounts to $720 annually, and the Army officials desire to turn the money over to this purpose into charitable channels.

Chest Approves Campaign The Community Chest makes no provision in its annual budget campaign for liquidation of mortgages, it was explained.

But Community Chest authorities have approved the campaign being launched, it was said.

The Salvation Army has been serving Western Maryland and adjoining West Virginia for nearly 40 years.

Members of the mortgage reduction committee, in addition to Mr. Young, are G. A. Schwarzenbach III, Rev. Dr. H. Hall Sharp, William L. Geppert, and Charles L. Kopp.

Pastor Bags First Deer

THE HEAD of this proud buck hangs low as the Rev. Edgar S. Price, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, prepares to skin him in his garage at 6 Arch street.

The nine-point buck weighed 250 lbs. and was the biggest and the first reported killed in Western Maryland yesterday. Rev. Price shot him with a "pumpkin ball" on Town Hill at 7:30 a. m.

He was hunting alone, watching a "crossing" which he had discovered while turkey hunting. "I've been hunting deer for five years, and this is the first one I ever got," the pastor said. "But it's worth it," he added hastily.

Court Clerks Sigh As Golden Age In Marriage Business Here Ends

Court house attaches sighed yesterday as they surveyed the report that 521 marriage licenses had been issued here last month.

The reason: November will probably be the last month that marriage licenses will run into several hundreds.

Maryland's new 48-hour marriage law goes into effect next Thursday, and the consensus is that it will materially lessen the number of licenses issued here.

Marriage license fees have comprised the largest single source of revenue for the clerk's office.

Although no one knew just how operation of the new law will affect the "marriage business," authoritative sources predicted December would show not more than 150 licenses issued.

With Maryland requiring a two-day wait between application for a license and its issuance, the incentive to come to Cumberland for a license is rendered almost negligible, it was pointed out.

Meanwhile, a check of the records showed that what will probably be an all-time high in the number of licenses issued was set in September, when 366 were issued.

It was the third time in the history of the clerk's office that the number had exceeded 300. June saw 602 issued and August, 660.

There were 650 licenses issued in October.

While last month's number was thus a decrease of 129 from the preceding month, it was an increase of 95 over November of last year, when 426 were issued.

Add good intentions—A young man who was given a suspended sentence to the House of Correction at the last term of Circuit court, took himself a wife the other day.

He was found guilty on two counts of breaking and entering, but sentence was suspended on his good behavior.

New officers and directors were elected last night by the Western Maryland Motor club, affiliate of the American Automobile Association.

New president is F. H. Rockwell, who has been managing director since March and who now becomes president-manager. J. Walter Byer was elected vice-president and Mrs. Mildred Inskeep, secretary-treasurer.

Directors elected last night are Daniel D'Amico, C. D. Walton, Dr. A. H. Hawkins, C. A. Richards, Russell Saville, P. E. Meyers, A. G. McElfish, Ralph Webster, A. B. Storey, W. M. Patterson, Shaffer J. Shammass, J. W. Towler, K. A. Wolfe, G. Gale Townsend, William Jenkins, of Frostburg, W. W. Dawson, of Oakland, Quincey A. Murphy, of Friendsville, W. W. New Sheriff, Deputies Have Quiet First Day

Sheriff Lucian G. Radcliffe and his three new deputies found their first day in office "very quiet," it was reported at a late hour last night.

They had no occasion for any criminal investigations, nor did they serve any criminal warrants.

A few civil papers were served. Sheriff Radcliffe said.

The sheriff spent the greater part of the day moving into the jail residence and familiarizing himself with office routine.

Bookkeeping methods of the office have changed considerably since he was a deputy sheriff 15 years ago, he said.

The old clock on the wall was the same one that ticked away the hours back then, he noted in passing.

Sues for Divorce

An order granting leave to take testimony in a suit brought by Ruth C. Hart for an absolute divorce from Allen B. Hart was issued yesterday in Circuit court.

The plaintiff charges desertion since July 1, 1935. The couple was married Jan. 1, 1924, according to the bill of complaint.

on High Roads Low Roads and By-Ways

The eighth day of December, 1938, will be a memorable date in the history of Midland. Not only will the volunteer fire department celebrate its thirty-eighth birthday, but a housewarming will be held in the department's new $8,000 home.

"Visiting firemen" from all around are invited, says Nozzleman Tom Baker, who, when he is not squirting water on fires, is squirting soda into firewater and such in a downtown bar.

Those girls' work uniforms hanging up in the Celanese union headquarters are not the beginning of the CIO's much-talked-about co-operative store, we have been advised.

They are just some stock the union has had around for some time, and are being pushed now at bargain prices. We understand the company sells the same kind of uniforms, and competition has not been the life of trade for the union.

If you think you have sales resistance (but still appreciate a feminine smile) just stroll through the Memorial hospital bazaar and watch your sales resistance melt as fast as the snow did day before yesterday.

In a hurried visit to the bazaar (wish it had not been so hurried) we must have bought chances on everything from a pedigreed dog to the Smith triplets. Or was it the Dionne quintuplets?

We went to Paris once, but it doesn't have half the "atmosphere" of the bazaar's Cafe Parisienne. Sam Wertheimer volunteered the information that it's the Cumberland-made beer that makes the difference.

Overheard in the conversation of a young lawyer: "We would have won that case if it hadn't been for the law."

There is a movement afoot, backed by some of the more anxious bachelors, to form a Bachelors Cotillion and have a couple of high class brawls—sorry, the typewriter slipped—a couple of high class balls every year.

GOP Fortifies Court House For Four More Years

Commissions Arrive Just In Nick of Time For New Officers

Ten county officials took the oath of office yesterday as the Republicans formally began "taking over" the court house for another four years.

Six elective officials were sworn in, and four appointive.

Five additional elective officials are scheduled to take the oath today.

The commissions for elective officials arrived from Annapolis in the morning—and fortunately so.

Contrary to first reports receipt of the commissions was necessary before elective officials could be sworn in.

Law Consulted

Law books searched yesterday morning, disclosed that the courts had ruled that a commission is a pre-requisite to the qualification of an officer when the law or constitution requires one to be issued.

In the absence of a commission, the opinion said, the clerk has no authority to qualify.

Elective officials sworn in yesterday were Judge William A. Huster, of the Circuit court; Robert Jackson, clerk of the Circuit court; Sheriff Lucian G. Radcliffe; Bernard B. Young and James F. Van Meter, judges of the Orphans court; and George E. Jordan, register of wills.

The four appointive officials to take the oath were Deputy Sheriffs Edward P. Kaylor, Henry McKee, Jr., and John H. Patton and Deputy Register of Wills Walter V. Miller.

Commissioners Qualify Today

R. Hilary Lancaster, third judge of the Orphans court, is expected to qualify today, along with the county commissioners and their clerk.

The commissioners, Simeon W. Green, Harry W. Matheny, and James Holmes, and the clerk to the board, Thomas P. Richards, will qualify this morning before their initial meeting at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Holmes, re-elected to the board, is expected to be named chairman by virtue of seniority. Mr. Green and Mr. Matheny are serving their first terms on the board.

Four appointments are scheduled to be made by the board this morning. They are: county physician, superintendent of Sylvan retreat, attorney to the board, and sanitary inspector.

The posts are occupied now by Dr. Fred Williams, John Kemp, David W. Sloan and Walter E. Kline, respectively.

Automobile Club Names Rockwell New President

New officers and directors were elected last night by the Western Maryland Motor club, affiliate of the American Automobile Association.

Social Items

Officers Chosen

At the annual meeting of the Western Maryland Past Matrons and Past Patrons Association, Order of the Eastern Star Wednesday, in Mt. Savage, Mrs. Alvin G. Crabbe, Hyndman, Pa., was elected president.

Other officers for 1939 are: Rev. G. D. Sampson, Mt. Savage, vice-president; Mrs. Harriett Roby, Cumberland secretary; and Mrs. Ann Strickler, Cumberland, treasurer.

Mrs. Mary Koontz, Mt. Savage, had charge of the meeting and was assisted by Alvin G. Crabbe, Hyndman.

The January meeting will be held in Lonaconing, at which time officers will be installed.

There was a social session and refreshments which followed the business meeting.

Decorations Described

At the joint meeting of the Garden Group and the Home Economics Group of the Woman's Civic Club held Wednesday at the Girl Scout Headquarters, Greene street, Mrs. W. Ralph Bretz gave a talk on "Traditional and Modern Decorations for the Home at Christmas Time."

She told of exhibits and prize winning tables on display at the Horticultural building at the Rockefeller Center in New York.

Edward Habeek talked on Christmas in Syria, their foods and decorations. He told of the religious festivities. Mr. Habeek described how to assemble material for decorations for Christmas.

Music Group To Meet

The Music section of the Cumberland Civic Club will meet at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Girl Scout headquarters on Greene street.

Mrs. Frank Stewart Rowe, chairman of the section, will discuss "Opera and the Radio" and Prof. Antonio LaManca will describe a presentation of Verdi's opera "Otello," as he heard it in Italy.

This opera will be discussed at this time for the reason that it will be broadcast Saturday afternoon from the stage of the Metropolitan Grand Opera House in New York city.

Musical Play Tonight

Tonight at St. Paul's Lutheran Parish House, corner South Centre and Union streets, the musical play, "The Church Fair," will be presented by a large cast, in connection with a sale of baked goods and a bazaar.

The play will begin at 7:45 o'clock and will be under the direction of Mrs. Monroe MacKenzie and Mrs. Duke Burger. Mrs. James Orr is general chairman.

Miss McFarland Honored

Miss Doris McFarland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. McFarland, a freshman in the College of Home Economics at the University of Maryland, was chosen a delegate to the Women's League. Miss McFarland is majoring in education.

To Sing At Club Meeting

At the Achievement day program under the auspices of the executive Council of Council of Homemakers Clubs at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, the Homemakers Chorus will sing several numbers. The meeting will be held in the City Hall auditorium.

Covered Dish Supper

Our Flag Council, No. 100, Daughters of America, held a covered dish supper last night at 6 p. m. in the Junior O. U. A. M. hall, Polk street. This preceded a business meeting.

Nursery Card Party

A card party will be given Wednesday at 2 p. m. under the auspices of the Keating Memorial Day Nursery at the nursery.

Prize-winners at this week's party were Mrs. Katherine Robinson and Mrs. Roy Drumm.

Banquet To Be Held

The annual banquet of the Past Matrons and Past Patrons of the Cumberland chapter of the Eastern Star will be held Tuesday night at 6:30 o'clock at the new Shrine Club.

Reynolds-Scheurling

Miss Mary Reynolds, Mt. Savage, and Lloyd Scheurling, of this city, were married Wednesday night, November 23 at St. Peter and Paul Monastery by the Rev. Fr. Luke.
